TRIO BELIEVED 'PRETTY BOY'S' FLIGHT PAWNS

Elderly Couple Reported Kidnaped as Sheriff Was by Floyd.

Bolivar, Mo., June 16 (A.P.).—Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, the Oklahoma outlaw, and a companion kidnaped Sheriff Jack Killingsworth, of Polk County, today, sped away in a stolen motor car and apparently eluded a posse which once drew within "shooting distance."

Floyd, with Adam Ricchetti, were last reported to be west of Deepwater, about 45 miles north-northwest of here, headed west on Highway 52 toward the Kansas border.

Reports received at the highway patrol headquarters in Jefferson City from unidentified observers said that five persons were in Floyd's car.

The two others, in addition to Floyd, Ricchetti and Killingsworth, were said to be "an elderly couple," giving credence to the report that a man and woman had also been kidnaped by the desperadoes near Deepwater.

Fear of Killing Hostages.

Sheriff Sterling Harness of Henry County said an unidentified couple believed to have been from Humboldt, Kans., had left Deepwater shortly before the car in which Floyd and Ricchetti fled from Bolivar was found abandoned near Deepwater.

Two theories were advanced at the highway patrol headquarters as to why the possemen did not fire when within "shooting distance" of Floyd's machine. One was that Killingsworth waved to them not to, and the other was that they were afraid of killing the outlaw's hostages.

The sheriff strolled into a garage where Floyd and Ricchetti had lined bystanders against the wall at the point of revolvers while their disabled automobile was being repaired.

"There's the law," Ricchetti shouted to Floyd.

The sheriff was covered with a machine gun, forced into an automobile belonging to Joe Ricchetti, mechanic at the garage and Adam's brother. The desperadoes dashed out of town with a rapidly formed posse a scant mile behind them.

"This is life and death with us," Floyd told the men in the garage before the sheriff arrived. "We have to do it, they would kill us if they could."

Floyd Quiets Curser.

Meanwhile Ricchetti loaded a machine gun and cursed the men he was covering with his weapon. Floyd quieted him down.

"That liquor is getting the best of you," the Oklahoma gunman observed.

The two men calmly loaded the gasoline tank of Joe Ricchetti's automobile and forced the sheriff into the car. Posses followed them to a point near Warsaw, Mo.

Floyd and Adam Ricchetti encountered officers near Seminole, Okla., about two weeks ago, but covered them with machine guns and escaped. Floyd is accused of numerous bank robberies and killings in the last few years. Rewards of approximately $6,000 have been posted in Oklahoma, Missouri and Ohio for his capture, dead or alive.

Filipino Freedom Truce Is Declared

Manila, June 16 (A.P.).—A truce between Philippine independence factions was in effect today following announcement by Manuel L. Quezon, president of the insular Senate, that he would wage no personal campaign for rejection prior to the July 17 opening of the Legislature.

The issue at stake is acceptance or rejection of the independence act voted by the United States Congress. The act required ratification by the Philippine Legislature to make it effective.

Leaders of both factions denied today, however, that any agreement had been reached to accept the independence act. It has been widely reported that Quezon has decided not to oppose acceptance of the measure, but will fight to have provisions he considers objectionable eliminated at a constitutional convention.

Paris Cabinet Indorses Daladier's Debt Policy

Paris, June 16 (A.P.).—The French cabinet today voted approval for Premier Edouard Daladier's debt policy and currency stabilization stand at the World Economic Conference.

It indorsed also the premier's efforts to get the world to return to the gold standard, and discussed different possibilities of the London parley.

New Planes

(Associated Press.)

A new batch of 290 fighting planes is wanted by the Navy to supplement the $238,000,000 three-year shipbuilding program.

This proposal would take $9,362,000 of the industrial control act's public work funds. In addition, the Navy would like $5,900,000 for planes to fill the places in the five-year program of those assigned to the 8-inch gun cruisers and the new aircraft carrier Ranger.

The Navy's present plane strength hovers around the 1,000 mark, but Rear Admiral Ernest King, chief of Naval Aeronautics, said yesterday the 32 ships in the new program announced by Secretary Swanson will require 290 additional planes.

Each of the two new aircraft carriers will require a complement of about 90 planes, the number carried by the Saratoga and Lexington. Each of the four cruisers would need planes, and Admiral King said one probably will be a flying deck cruiser with a 30-plane complement.

Construction of the new planes would be spread over a three-year period.

The naval air chief said there was a $17,000,000 limit on cash withdrawals from the Treasury during the 1934 fiscal year under President Roosevelt's economy orders and that unless funds were allotted out of the industrial control measure "there would only be about $2,000,000 for spending on new planes."

WEALTHY BREWER HELD FOR RANSOM

Kidnapers of William Hamm Ask $100,000 Under Pain of Death.

St. Paul, Minn., June 16 (U.P.).—William Hamm, 39-year-old millionaire brewer, was seized by a gang of kidnapers today and held for $100,000 ransom.

Intimations that Hamm would be killed unless the money was forthcoming were conveyed to William Dunn, sales manager of the brewing company of which Hamm is president. The intimations came both by note and by telephone.

Orders were issued to St. Paul police to bring in Verne Sankey, "dead or alive." Sankey is charged with directing the abductions of Haskell Bohn, St. Paul, son of the millionaire refrigerator manufacturer, and Charles Boettcher 2d, Denver sportsman and wealthy businessman.

Mr. Hamm is president and treasurer of the Theo. Hamm Brewing Co. St. Paul, and son of the late William Hamm, local capitalist.

First news of the kidnaping was received yesterday by William W. Dunn, manager of Hamm's. A telephone call to Mr. Dunn released the abduction. "We have kidnaped Mr. Hamm," said a voice. "You will hear from us later."

Today Mr. Dunn received a note which stated Mr. Hamm was being held for $100,000 ransom and that unless the money was paid Mr. Hamm would be killed. Attached to the bottom of the note was a postscript signed by Hamm, in which he urged immediate payment of the money.

The note was delivered by a taxi driver who told police he was approached by a man Thursday night.

"This man told me," the driver related to police, "that he would give me $2 if I would take a note to Mr. Dunn. He said that his name was Gordon and that he lived in the Lowry Hotel. I took the note and delivered it."

Police said the taxi driver later identified a picture of Verne Sankey, sought for two kidnapings already, as "Gordon," the man who gave him the note.

Johnson Forced Down on Air Hop

Pittsburgh, June 16 (A.P.).—Hugh S. Johnson tonight defined the national recovery bill as a "charter of new industrial self-government in this country," designed to take men off streets and send them back to work.

Johnson, whom the President appointed administrator of the bill, was forced down in Pittsburgh tonight by treacherous flying weather over the Alleghenies. He was en route to Chicago in an Army plane.

PEGGING DOLLAR CONTROL RESTS WITH PRESIDENT

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Stabilization of the dollar at the London economic and monetary conference will in reality be worked out here in Washington by the President, Secretary of the Treasury Woodin and Acting Secretary of State Phillips, it was authoritatively made known here last night. The delegates to the London conference will have authority to discuss the preliminary steps to the pegging of the dollar in conjunction with the British and French financial authorities, but the final decision will rest with the President.

For the last two or three days there have been persistent reports from abroad that a de facto stabilization of the three leading currencies was imminent. There was even talk that an equalization account was to be established, alimented by funds from the Bank of England, the Bank of France and the Bank for International Settlements at Basel to buttress the dollar against speculators' attacks on the foreign exchanges of Paris, Amsterdam and London.

Woodin Denies Reports.

Secretary of the Treasury Woodin himself declared that these reports were without foundation and yesterday an even more emphatic denial was forthcoming from the other official sources.

It is not believed possible here in authoritative circles that any definite measure of stabilization can be accomplished for the next fortnight. The President, whose voice will carry the last word in the settlement, will not return from his New England holidays until the second or third of July, and by that time, it is believed, the delegates at London will have advanced sufficiently to permit a definite pegging of the currencies. In the meantime, the dollar will be permitted to find its true level on the exchange markets of the world without any bolstering or depressive tactics by this Government.

At the present time Gov. George Harrison, of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, is in London attending the meeting of the central bank authorities of the world. No official report of his activities has yet been made to the President nor to the Secretary of the Treasury, although it is believed possible that Gov. Harrison, as well as Prof. O. W. M. Sprague, recently appointed advisor of the Treasury of the United States, will take a prominent part in striking a common denominator for the moneys of the three countries.

Activities to Be Limited.

Their activities, however, as well as the negotiations of the American advisors and technicians accompanying Secretary Hull and the delegation now in London, will be limited strictly to advisory and preliminary functions. They will propose; the President will dispose.

The President intends to keep his

"Blanketed" Jobs Facing Ax July 1

A number of bureau executives and specialists in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, "blanketed" into the Civil Service without taking examination, may lose their jobs by executive order after July 1, it was indicated yesterday at the Commerce Department.

The bureau chiefs were said to number approximately 250. No action is expected to be taken until President Roosevelt returns from his vacation, it was said at the Commerce Department.

Secretary of Commerce Roper planned to ask the President to issue the order prior to his departure, but following conferences with members of the Civil Service Commission, he decided to submit the plan to a member of the commission for his approval.

30-CENT PER BUSHEL WHEAT TAX SLATED

To Be Levied on Processors in Acreage Cut Plan for Next Two Years.

(Associated Press.)

A 30-cents-a-bushel tax on wheat will be levied on wheat processors beginning soon after July 1, to pay farmers $150,000,000 for agreements to reduce acreage.

Secretary Wallace, announcing yesterday that the tax would be assessed, disclosed that he planned to distribute the money to farmers under the domestic allotment plan this year for agreements to reduce acreage during the next two years.

He estimated that the tax would be 30 cents on the basis of the formula prescribed in the farm marketing act.

Today, shortly after noon, the Secretary expects to announce officially a program for cotton which will also call for levying the maximum processing tax, beginning about August 1. The tax on the basis of present price relationships recognized by the bill would be about 4 cents a pound.

The cotton plan will call for a sharp reduction of the crop now growing by payment of rentals to farmers and authorizing them to ob-

Idaho to Call Election For Repeal Delegates

Boise, Idaho, June 16 (A.P.).—Gov. C. Ben Ross announced today he will call a special election for September 19 to select delegates to a State convention to pass upon the proposed repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The convention will be held October 17.

Candidates for delegates both for and against repeal are to be chosen by petition. Names of the 21 delegates on each side having the largest number of signers on their petitions will be placed on the ballot.

MORGENTHAU TO AID IN BANKS' REOPENING

35 Millions to Cut Farmers' Mortgage Debts; Plan to Start in Wisconsin.

(Associated Press.)

An invitation to other States to work out programs for reopening closed banks that are weighted down by heavy holdings of frozen farm mortgages was extended yesterday by Henry Morgenthau, jr., after announcing a program for reopening banks in Wisconsin, which will be initiated Monday.

"Other States will be extended the same opportunity," Mr. Morgenthau, the governor of the new Farm Credit Administration, said after outlining the Wisconsin plan, under which he expects to refinance $50,000,000 in mortgages held by banks, to reopen them for business and to make available to depositors up to $35,000,000. The entire program is expected to require from three to six months to execute.

In substance, the Wisconsin program is designed to operate in this manner:

A special office of the Farm Credit Administration will be set up at the State Capitol in Madison Monday. It will be under the direction of Paul Bestor, retiring Land Bank commissioner; Elbert S. Goss, of Seattle, selected yesterday as his successor, and Dr. W. I. Myers, of Cornell University, who will be named deputy governor of the Credit Administration soon.

A total of $35,000,000 has been made available by the Reconstruction

DISTRICT BILL OF CUT FUNDS BECOMES LAW

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

President Roosevelt yesterday formally wrote "finis" on the District's special session legislative program, when the $30,375,000 District supply bill, spreading sharply reduced funds over a broad field of activity, was signed at the White House.

Meanwhile, congressional committees assigned to investigate matters of primary local concern, pressed forward with plans calling for almost continuous attention until Congress again takes up the gauntlet in January.

The local situation was as follows:

Chairman William H. King, of the Senate District Committee, called a meeting of his milk price investigating subcommittee for Monday, when the subgroup will be reorganized and plans laid for a summer of intensive investigation.

Patrick to Probe Rents.

District Auditor Daniel J. Donovan and Assistant Corporation Counsel William A. Roberts made ready to render preliminary data on reorganization of the District government to the subcommittee investigating that subject, before members return home for the summer.

Senator King formally called on Chairman Mason M. Patrick of the Public Utilities Commission to take over the Senate District Committee's investigation of local rental conditions, despite failure of Congress to provide additional funds.

Chairman Lamar Jeffers of the House Civil Service Committee, postponed until October the investigation ordered by the House into alleged failure of the Civil Service Commission to make appointments with regard to State quotas. This investigation strikes at District workers, as Washington already has more than 10,000 employes "over quota."

Smallest Federal Contribution.

While the President yesterday was attaching his signature to the District's 1934 supply bill, District officials were holding informal conferences to determine what measure of essential retrenchment must be undertaken before the reduced appropriations become effective July 1.

The measure carries the smallest toward local needs in the history of the District—$5,700,000.

Construction funds are cut to the bone, expenditure of some $1,125,000 of the total amount being left to the discretion of the Budget Director, who may spend it or not as he chooses. This "discretionary fund," appropriated from local surpluses, could be used for construction of Calvert Street Bridge, water plant improvements and new streets. Additional street construction to the extent of some $2,000,000 is authorized in the recovery act signed yesterday.

Two school construction projects are provided for through an initial

Petitti, Kidnaper's Brother, Is Slain

Chicago, June 16 (A.P.).—Two gunmen today hunted down Joe Petitti, member of a notorious West Side family, shot him dead as he played cards on a doorstep and wounded two others.

The random shots imperiled a number of girls working in a factory, a bullet piercing the dress of one.

Learning Petitti's identity police immediately assumed he was the quarry of the assassins.

His brother, Angelo, is serving 25 years in Joliet Prison for the kidnaping of Young Billy Ranieri several years ago. Another brother, Fred, was found shot to death in February in a West Side poolroom.

Leaders of 2 Big Recovery Acts Named

President Asks Teamwork as He Signs Vast Bills.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Moving speedily to place his far-reaching recovery program in operation, President Roosevelt yesterday established two special Cabinet committees to supervise administration of the industrial stabilization and public works bill.

Characterizing the new law as probably "the most important and far-reaching legislation ever enacted by an American Congress," the President appealed to the country for whole-hearted support in the administration's concerted drive for better times.

"It represents a supreme effort to stabilize for all time the many factors which make for the prosperity of the Nation, and the preservation of American standards. * * * Obviously if this project is to succeed, it demands the whole-hearted cooperation of industry, labor and every citizen of the Nation."

Special Cabinet Committee.

Four hours after he affixed his signature to the momentous measure, the President formally announced the appointment of Hugh S. Johnson as administrator of the industrial control program.

Supervising the general policies of administration will be a special Cabinet committee. This nominal board of directors will be headed by Secretary of Commerce Roper. Other members will be the Attorney General, the Secretaries of Labor, Agriculture and Interior, the Director of the Budget, the chairman of the Federal Trade Commission and Director Johnson.

In a formal statement outlining the steps by which industries may organize themselves for cooperation under the venture, Mr. Roosevelt emphasized that every trade agreement would be subject to his personal approval.

"At the conclusion of these hearings, and after the most careful scrutiny by a competent economic staff, the administrator will present the subject to me for my action under the law," the White House announcement explained.

Into Team Formation.

In concluding his 2,000-word outline, the President urged the country to fall into team formation for the national drive for prosperity and stability.

"As in the great crisis of the World War," he said, "it puts a whole people to the simple, but vital test—'Must we go on in many groping, disorganized, separate units to defeat, or shall we move as one great team to victory?'"

Mr. Roosevelt did not indicate the source of his quotation.

The $3,000,000,000 public works section will be administered for the present by Col. Donald H. Sawyer, new chairman of the Federal Employment Stabilization Board, with headquarters in the Department of Commerce. The Cabinet supervisory board for

COMMERCE OFFICES PUT IN TWO GROUPS

Missouri Lawyer to Direct Transportation Unit in Reorganization.

Under a general reorganization, which will ultimately divide all bureaus of the Department of Commerce into two groups, President Roosevelt yesterday appointed Ewing Y. Mitchell, Springfield, Mo., attorney, as Assistant Secretary of Commerce in charge of Transportation.

Mr. Mitchell, succeeding Col. Clarence M. Young, former Assistant Secretary for Aeronautics, will head this group, while the second group, including trade and industries, will be put under the direction of John Dickson, the other Assistant Secretary, it is understood.

Under the direction of Mr. Mitchell will be placed the aeronautics branch of the department, Lighthouse Bureau, Coast and Geodetic Survey and Bureau of Navigation and Steamboat Inspection. Under the general reorganization order, functions of the Shipping Board will be transferred to the Department of Commerce, also under Mr. Mitchell's supervision.

In the second group probably will be the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Bureau of Census, Bureau of Standards, Patent Office and Bureau of Fisheries. The Bureau of Mines also will be in this section unless it is transferred to the Department of the Interior, which is probable.

The first man to fly a scheduled air mail route and who was instrumental in the selection of Bolling Field as Washington's military air base, was appointed by Secretary of Commerce Roper as executive assistant to Mr. Mitchell. He is James Clark Edgerton, a resident of this city for ten years.

Mr. Edgerton has long been identified with both civil and military aeronautics. He is a native of Nebraska and received a portion of his education in District public schools.

As the first air mail pilot flying a scheduled route, he landed on the polo grounds in Potomac Park, May 16, 1918, with the first air mail from New York. He was one of a committee of two appointed by the War Department to select a site for an Army flying field here. His work resulted in the selection of Bolling Field.

Four other men were appointed to head various units of the reorganized divisions.

Starvation Widespread In Chinese Province

Shanghai, China, June 16 (A.P.).—Thousands of persons have starved to death and cannibalism is widespread throughout Shensi Province as the result of a long drought, Chinese reports said today.

This former fertile wheat growing section of central China, the dispatches said, has had no rain since 1928. Shensi is about 600 square miles in area. Many inhabitants were reported to have turned to banditry in a desperate attempt to sustain themselves.

"Wolves come every night and obtain victims from among the half-starved people," said one account.

LOWELL REVERSED IN CRAWFORD CASE

U. S. Court Opposes Writ Freeing Man Wanted in Ilsley Murder.

Boston, June 16 (A.P.).—Federal Judge James A. Lowell's decision granting a writ of habeas corpus to a Negro wanted in Virginia for murder, which decision resulted in the jurist's impeachment in Congress, today was reversed by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The impeachment proceedings now are in committee.

The writ freeing George Crawford, sought for the slaying of two women in Middleburg, Va., in 1932, was issued by Judge Lowell after evidence had been offered that Negroes were not called for jury service in Virginia. Judge Lowell held the case might well be disposed of here instead of after it eventually reached the United States Supreme Court.

The decision by Judge Lowell created a furore in Southern States. He had contended that failure to call Negroes for jury service would serve to nullify a conviction of Crawford should the case go before the Supreme Court.

In referring to racial discrimination on grand juries, the circuit court found "the State official who, in making up the lists and drawings of jurors, discriminated against Negroes was subject to indictment for such conduct under the Federal statutes enacted to give effect to the fourteenth amendment."

J. Weston Allen, counsel for Crawford and a former attorney general of Massachusetts, said he would take the case to the United States Supreme Court. Allen contended the Federal courts had the right to enter the case before it was concluded as well as they had to review it afterward.

House Starts to Probe Charges Against Lowell

The House Judiciary Committee yesterday decided to name a subcommittee to investigate impeachment charges filed in the House against Federal Judge James A. Lowell, of Boston, who released George Crawford, colored, wanted for the slaying of two Warrenton (Va.) women.

Following action of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston yesterday, reversing Judge Lowell's action in denying extradition of Crawford, Chairman Hatton W. Summers, of the House Judiciary Committee, announced he will appoint a subcommittee to go forward with the impeachment inquiry some time next week.

Judge Lowell was impeached on the floor of the House by Representative Howard W. Smith (Democrat), Virginia, immediately after the Boston judge had refused to allow Crawford to be taken back to Virginia for trial.

The Virginia representative then asked a formal investigation by the House Judiciary Committee to determine whether Lowell should stand impeachment trial. The House authorized the inquiry.

Cummings Plans War on Gangsters

(Associated Press.)

A widespread war against gangsters and racketeers is being planned by Attorney General Cummings as one of the foremost objectives of his department.

Several score reports of gangster activities have come to the Department of Justice since Mr. Cummings took office and he has set out upon a campaign against these illegal elements which he feels are preying upon legitimate business.

"It is warfare, pure and simple," Mr. Cummings said, "and somebody is going to win. I have a feeling it is going to be the Department of Justice. Gangsters must go."

(Associated Press.)

Lieut. Comdr. Herbert V. Wiley, the only officer to survive the tragic crash of the airship Akron off Barnegat Light, was ordered from lighter-than-air craft service to sea duty "at his own request."

This statement was made today by Rear Admiral Ernest King, chief of Naval Aeronautics, almost as an echo of criticism by a congressional committee investigating the Akron disaster of what it called the "mistaken policy" of the Navy in transferring air officers to sea duty.

John Harlin Geisse, also a former war pilot and graduate of engineering at the University of Wisconsin, was appointed supervising aeronautics inspector. He served throughout the war and has been closely identified with aviation work.

President Roosevelt yesterday named Russel Amory, of California, to be an assistant director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. Mr. Amory succeeds Oliver Paul Hopkins.

At the same time the President gave a recess appointment to Daniel B. Shields, Utah, as United States attorney for the District of Utah.

Seldon R. Glenn was named collector of internal revenue for Kentucky; Raymond Miller, collector of customs for District 47 at Denver; Margaret M. McQuillkin, collector of customs at Salt Lake City; Mark A. Skinner, superintendent of the mint at Denver; Bruce La Follette, assayer of the mint at Denver; Edward W. Griffin, of Alaska, territorial secretary, and Mrs. Jessie M. Garner, register of the land office at Denver.

Text of Statement Made by President On Administration Under Recovery Act

Statement by the President outlining general policies of administration to be put into effect under the recovery act signed yesterday.

The law I have just signed was passed to put people back to work—to let them buy more of the products of farms and factories and start our business at a living rate again. This task is in two stages—first, to get many hundreds of thousands of the unemployed back on the pay-roll by snowfall and, second, to plan for a better future for the longer pull. While we shall not neglect the second, the first stage is an emergency job. It has the right of way.

The second part of the act gives employment by a vast program of public works. Our studies show that we should be able to hire many men at once and to step up to about a million new jobs by October 1, and a much greater number later. We must put at the head of our list those works which are fully ready to start now. Our first purpose is to create employment as fast as we can, but we should not pour money into unproved projects.

We have worked out our plans for action. Some of it will start tomorrow. I am making available $400,000,000 for State roads under regulations which I have just signed and am told that the States will get this work under way at once. I have also just over $200,000,000 for the Navy to start building ships under the London treaty.

In my inaugural I laid down the simple proposition that nobody is going to starve in this country. It seems to me to be equally plain that no business which depends for existence on paying less than living wages to its workers has any right to continue in this country. By "business" I mean the whole of commerce as well as the whole of industry; by workers I mean all workers—the white-collar class as well as the men in overalls, and by living wages I mean more than a bare subsistence level—I mean the wages of decent living.

Paying a Living Wage For the Shorter Week.

Throughout industry, the change from starvation wages and starvation employment to living wages and sustained employment can, in large part, be made by an industrial covenant to which all employers shall subscribe. It is greatly to their interest to do this because decent living, widely spread among our 125,000,000 people eventually means the opening up to industry of the richest market which the world has known. It is the only way to utilize the so-called excess capacity of our industrial plants. This is the principle that makes this one of the most important laws that ever came from Congress because, before the passage of this act, no such industrial covenant was possible.

On this idea, the first part of the act proposes to our industry a great spontaneous cooperation to put millions of men back in their regular jobs this summer. The idea is simply for employers to hire more men to do the existing work by reducing the workhours of each man's week and at the same time paying a living wage for the shorter week.

No employer and no group of less than all employers in a single trade could do this alone and continue to live in business competition. But if all employers in each trade now band themselves faithfully in these modern guilds—without exception—and agree to act together and at once, none will be hurt and millions of workers, so long deprived of the right to earn their bread in the sweat of their labor, can raise their heads again. The challenge of this law is whether we can sink selfish interest and present a solid front against a common peril.

It is a challenge to industry which has long insisted that, given the right to act in unison, it could do much for the general good which has hitherto been unlawful. From today it has that right.

Many good men voted this new charter with misgivings. I do not share these doubts. I had part in the great cooperation of 1917 and 1918 and it is my faith that we can count on our industry once more to join in our general purpose to lift this new threat and to do it without taking any advantage of the public trust which has this day been reposed without stint in the good faith and high purpose of American business.

Industry Is Challenged In Another Manner.

But industry is challenged in another way. It is not only the slackers within trade groups who may stand in the path of our common purpose. In a sense these groups compete with each other, and no single industry, and no separate cluster of industries, can do this job alone for exactly the same reason that no single employer can do it alone. In other words we can imagine such a thing as a slacker industry.

This law is also a challenge to labor. Workers, too, are here given a new charter of rights long sought and hitherto denied. But they know that the first move expected by the Nation is a great cooperation of all employers, by one single mass action, to improve the case of workers on a scale never attempted in any nation. Industries can do this only if they have the support of the whole public and especially of their own workers. This is not a law to foment discord and it will not be executed as such. This is a time for mutual confidence and help and we can safely rely on the sense of fair play among all Americans to assure every industry which now moves forward promptly in this united drive against depression that its workers will be with it to a man.

It is, further, a challenge to administration. We are relaxing some of the safeguards of the antitrust laws. The public must be protected against the abuses that led to their enactment, and to this end we are putting in place of old principles of unchecked competition some new Government controls. They must, above all, be impartial and just. Their purpose is to free business—not to shackle it—and no man who stands on the constructive, forward-looking side of his industry has anything to fear from them. To such men the opportunities for individual initiative will open more amply than ever. Let me make it clear, however, that the antitrust laws still stand firmly against monopolies that restrain trade and price fixing which allows inordinate profits or unfairly high prices.

If we ask our trade groups to do that which exposes their business, as never before, to undermining by members who are unwilling to do their parts, we must guard those who play the game for the general good against those who may seek selfish gains from the unselfishness of others. We must protect them from the racketeers who invade organizations of both employers and workers. We are spending billions of dollars. And if that spending is really to serve our ends it must be done quickly. We must see that our haste does not permit favoritism and graft. All this is a heavy load for any Government and one that can be borne only if we have the patience, cooperation and support of people everywhere.

Finally, this law is a challenge to our whole people. There is no power in America that can force against the public will such action as we require, but there is no group in America that can withstand the force of an aroused public opinion. This great cooperation can succeed only if those who bravely go forward to restore jobs have aggressive public support and those who lag are made to feel the full weight of public disapproval.

As to the machinery—the practical way of accomplishing what we are setting out to do, when a trade association has a code ready to submit and the association has qualified as truly representative, and after reasonable notice has been issued to all concerned, a public hearing will be held by the administrator or a deputy. A labor advisory board appointed by the Secretary of Labor will be responsible that every affected labor group, whether organized or unorganized, is fully and adequately represented in an advisory capacity, and any interested labor group will be entitled to be heard through representatives of its own choosing.

An industrial advisory board appointed by the Secretary of Commerce will be responsible that every affected industrial group is fully and adequately represented in an advisory capacity, and any interested industrial group will be entitled to be heard through representatives of its own choosing. A consumers' advisory board will be responsible that the interests of the consuming public will be represented, and every reasonable opportunity will be given to any group or class who may be affected directly or indirectly to present their views.

At the conclusion of these hearings and after the most careful scrutiny by a competent economic staff, the administrator will present the subject to me for my action under the law.

I am fully aware that wage increases will eventually raise costs, but I ask that managements give first consideration to the improvement of operating figures by greatly increased sales to be expected from the rising purchasing power of the public. That is good economics and good business. The aim of this whole effort is to restore our rich domestic market by raising its vast consuming capacity.

If we now inflate prices as fast and as far as we increase wages, the whole project will be set at naught. We can not hope for the full effect of this plan unless, in these first critical months, and, even at the expense of full initial profits, we defer price increases as long as possible. If we can thus start a strong sound upward spiral of business activity our industries will have little doubt of black ink operations in the last quarter of this year. The pent-up demand of this people is very great and if we can release it on so broad a front, we need not fear a lagging recovery. There is greater danger of too much feverish speed.

Success Hinges on Willing And Cooperative Spirit.

In a few industries, there has been some forward buying at unduly depressed prices in recent weeks. Increased costs resulting from this Government-inspired movement may make it very hard for some manufacturers and jobbers to fulfill some of their present contracts without loss. It will be a part of this wide industrial cooperation for those having the benefit of these forward bargains (contracted before the law was passed) to take the initiative in revising them to absorb some share of the increase in their suppliers' costs, thus raised in the public interest. It is only in such a willing and considerate spirit, throughout the whole of industry, that we can hope to succeed.

Under Title I of this Act, I have appointed Hugh Johnson as Administrator and a special Industrial Recovery Board under the Chairmanship of the Secretary of Commerce. This organization is now prepared to receive proposed Codes and to conduct prompt hearings looking toward their submission to me for approval. While acceptable proposals of no trade group will be delayed, it is my hope that the ten major industries which control the bulk of industrial employment can submit their simple basic Codes at once and that the country can look forward to the month of July as the beginning of our great national movement back to work.

During the coming three weeks Title II relating to public works and construction projects will be temporarily conducted by Col. Donald H. Sawyer as Administrator, and a special temporary board consisting of the Secretry of the Interior as chairman, the Secretary of Commerce, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of War, the Attorney General, the Secretary of Labor and the Director of the Budget.

During the next two weeks the Administrator and this board will make a study of all projects already submitted or to be submitted and, as previously stated, certain allotments under the new law will be made immediately.

Between these twin efforts—public works and industrial reemployment, it is not too much to expect that a great many men and women can be taken from the ranks of the unemployed before winter comes.

An Earlier Statement Made by the President.

It is the most important attempt of this kind in history. As in the great crisis of the World War, it puts a whole people to the simple but vital test—"Must we go on in many groping, disorganized, separate units to defeat or shall we move as one great team to victory?"

An earlier statement by the President said:

History probably will record the national industrial recovery act as the most important and far-reaching legislation ever enacted by the American Congress. It represents a supreme effort to stabilize for all time the many factors which make for the prosperity of the Nation and the preservation of American standards.

Its goal is the assurance of a reasonable profit to industry and living wages for labor with the elimination of the piratical methods and practices which have not only harrassed honest business but also contributed to the ills of labor.

While we are engaged in establishing new foundations for business which ultimately should open a return to work for large numbers of men, it is our hope through the so-called public works section of the law to speedily initiate a program of public construction that should early reemploy additional hundreds of thousands of men.

Obviously, if this project is to succeed, it demands the wholehearted cooperation of industry, labor and every citizen of the Nation.

ROOSEVELT NAMES "NEW DEAL" CHIEFS

the segment of the program will be headed by Secretary of the Interior Ickes. The other members will be those appointed to the Industrial Board, with the addition of the Secretary of War.

Under the special appropriation bill passed on Thursday, $400,000,000 is to be made available immediately to the States for Federal-aid highway construction.

An additional $238,000,000 is to become available immediately for the construction of 32 new naval vessels under the terms of the London treaty.

As the President left last night for a three-week yachting vacation along the North Atlantic Seaboard, he announced that the Public Works Board would go to work at once upon the task of selecting projects to be begun this summer.

The President estimates that before October 1 no less than 1,000,000 men can be employed directly on the public works program. Several thousand projects already have been submitted. Mr. Roosevelt believes that perhaps one out of ten may survive the scrutiny of the Cabinet commission. But those which are approved will be advanced as rapidly as possible after Mr. Roosevelt's return to Washington, about July 3.

Peace-Time Record.

In clearing his desk for an extended holiday, President Roosevelt yesterday gave final approval to more major legislation than probably ever before has been signed at the White House on a single day in peace times.

In addition to the recovery-public works act, he approved the Glass banking bill, the $8,600,000,000 emergency appropriation measure; the independent offices appropriation bill, which carries the $160,000,000 restoration of veteran economies; the revenue bill, extending the gasoline and power taxes, and the measure consolidating the farm credit agencies.

Memorial pens were plentiful at the Executive Offices for those who had conspicuous parts in advancing the administration bills through Congress.

With Senator Carter Glass at his side as he signed the banking bill, the President observed jovially that the measure had "more lives than a cat." Whereas the proverbial cat has but nine lives, the Glass bill "has been declared dead almost fourteen different times in the last few months, and it finally came through," Mr. Roosevelt said.

Senator Glass nodded his assent and smiled, but did not say exactly how many lives his bill had.

Twenty years ago Senator Glass, as chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, was a leader in the fight for the Federal Reserve act. The bill signed yesterday had been in preparation since April, 1930.

Joseph B. Eastman, a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, was appointed Coordinator of Transportation to supervise the workings of the new railroad administration bill. In this connection, the President declared yesterday, the question of railroad wages, now in negotiation between the workers and the carriers, had not yet been presented for governmental consideration.

There were indications, however, that this problem also soon would be before the Mr. Eastman.

Subsidiary personnel for the national transportation program has not been selected.

Magna Charta Day Also.

After his crowded day at the Executive Offices, President Roosevelt expressed to Senator Gore, of Oklahoma, the belief that more important legislation had been signed than on any other single day in all American history. Senator Gore had recalled that Thursday was Magna Charta Day, the anniversary of the historic signing at Runneymede on June 15, 1215.

Supplementing the President's steps looking to industrial reemployment, the recently established emergency agency for agricultural rehabilitation moved yesterday to hasten application of the wheat adjustment program. Arrangments for reducing cotton acreage will be announced within a few days.

After thus setting in motion the vast recovery machinery created by Congress since March, President Roosevelt boarded a special train early last night for an overnight trip to the Massachusetts coast.

After a brief stop at Groton School, near Boston, to pick up Franklin, jr., the presidential party will move on to board the schooner Amberjack II by nightfall. Weather permitting, the trim craft will head northward Sunday morning for Campo Bello Island, across the Maine border.

Mr. Roosevelt plans to be back at his desk July 5. He has a speaking engagement at Charlottesville, Va., on Independence Day.

Dr. Daniels Heads Illinois U.

Chicago, June 16 (A.P.).—Dr. Arthur Hill Daniels, dean of the graduate school, of the University of Illinois, today was named acting president of the university, succeeding Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, who resigned to be chancellor of New York University.

First Permit

For Annual Sale of Beer Is Issued by District; Checking Goes On.

The District Commissioners yesterday awarded the first annual beer license and revoked a temporary permit. The on-sale license went to Burt Lopatin, of 1418 New York avenue northwest.

Revocation of the off-sale permit held by Ellis Duke, of 123 Indiana avenue northwest, was based on three counts, false statement in the application, failure to pay municipal beer taxes and violation of the off-sale license.

Police are carefully checking other temporary permits, and the Beverage Permits Board expects to recommend many annual licenses shortly.

FIRST LADY ATTENDS GRADUATION OF SON

Franklin, Jr., Gets Diploma at Groton School Where Father Studied.

Groton, Mass., June 16 (A.P.).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, as the "mother of a graduate" and not as "the First Lady of the Land" was present today for the graduation exercises of exclusive Groton School.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., received the coveted diploma from the same Groton School where his father, the President, was graduated 50 years ago. In keeping with tradition, the exercise were exclusively for relatives, friends and alumni of Groton.

Besides receiving his diploma, Franklin, jr., received first prize of the senior debating society and also the Charles Lanier Appleton memorial prize, awarded to the member of the sixth form who has combined to the greatest degree scholarship and ability in athletics. Another son of the Roosevelts, John, is a student at Groton.

Mrs. Roosevelt and members of her party attended the service in the school chapel prior to the graduating exercises. The Rev. Dr. Endicott Peabody, headmaster of Groton since 1884 and for many years an intimate friend of the Roosevelts, presented the diplomas and prizes to the graduates.

Dr. George L. Vincent was the graduation speaker.

Mrs. Roosevelt came to Groton by automobile from Boston. On the train trip from Washington to Boston she was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Curtis Dall. Her son, James, and his wife joined the party for the trip to Groton.

Meeting Is Called To Aid Dairymen

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Wallace yesterday took steps looking toward early application of the farm adjustment act to dairying, calling a meeting of representatives of producers, processors and distributors for Monday, June 26.

Wallace and administrators, with an eye to the commodities which accounted for 35 per cent of American farm income last year, already have under way projects for trade marketing agreements covering fluid milk areas. All these agreements are local in their application.

The general conference will explore the possibilities of a national plan for butter, cheese, evaporated milk and powdered and other milk products which are dealt with largely on a country-wide basis with prices less subject to purely local influences.

Kiwanis Groups In Joint Meeting

An interclub meeting of the Washington and Manassas, Va., Kiwanis Clubs was held yesterday at Manassas. Seventeen members of the Washington club and two members of the Alexandria, Va., club attended.

The visitors were entertained with golf in the afternoon on the Swavely School for Boys golf course and dinner in the evening at the Manassas Hotel. The meeting was in charge of Frank T. Mitchell, chairman of the sports committee of the Washington club.

Davis Is in London To Talk With Hull

London, June 16 (A.P.).—President Roosevelt's roving ambassador, Norman H. Davis, dropped in from Paris tonight saying he came to give Cordell Hull, American Secretary of State and chief of the American delegation to the World Economic Conference, the latest news on efforts for disarmament before leaving Sunday for home.

Mr. Davis served on the organizing committee of the Economic Conference and personally engineered the Roosevelt tariff truce agreement here several weeks ago, but he emphasized at American headquarters that he was not connected with the London parley.

His report on the disarmament situation is not expected to be encouraging, since there has been no sign the French would yield from their insistence upon tangible guarantees for security in return for scrapping offensive weapons, as Mr. Roosevelt proposed.

CASH STABILIZATION PLAN NEAR IN LONDON

White House Says It Has Not Heard of Scheme; Dollar Rates Undecided.

London, June 16 (A.P.).—An agreement for the stabilization of American and British currencies, which the French government insists is the first essential for any progress in the world economic conference, was said in American delegation quarters tonight to be fairly complete save for the vital matter as to the rates at which control should begin.

(At the White House in Washington today it was emphasized that President Roosevelt had heard nothing from the London Conference in the way of a suggestion for currency stabilization and that the conference neither would nor could do anything about stabilization unless the action was approved by the President, the Secretary of State and the Secretary of the Treasury.)

Hypothetical Level.

It was explained in well-informed quarters that the level of $4.09, at which it was rumored in financial and conference circles that stabilization was likely to start, had been used merely hypothetically by experts for the purpose of discussion, but that no agreement had yet been reached as to the level.

Earlier today Georges Bonnet, French finance minister, indicated he had considered that the American delegation had agreed to dollar stabilization when he acceded to the election of James M. Cox as chairman of the monetary commission.

The pound closed here today at $4.05¾, up ½ cent from yesterday's final quotation.

If the pound and the dollar should be stabilized with relation to each other somewhat above $4, it was explained, this would represent considerable concession by the British, who had first insisted that sterling must be reduced substantially below the high levels reached in terms of dollars since the United States abandoned the gold standard.

French quarters still displayed considerable apprehension over the starting point for currency control, reflecting fears that further sharp depreciation of the dollar might dislodge France from the gold standard.

Both American and British policies, however, are designed chiefly to lift the level of commodity prices and it was suggested that an Anglo-American agreement might be made to fix the two currencies in relation to each other while permitting them to fluctuate against the franc and other gold currencies.

This would be a change in British policy, which has favored stabilizing the pound with the franc since the United States left gold.

It was understood the agreement as tentatively reached would permit the nongold currencies to change their relationships with gold moneys if it was found that stabilization was having a depressing effect upon the markets.

French-American Talks.

While French quarters expressed consternation at first over the statement of Secretary of the Treasury Woodin that no stabilization agreement had been reached, the situation was said to be somewhat clarified today after private discussions between the French and the Americans and a telephone conversation between M Bonnet and Premier Daladier in Paris.

Considerable interest was manifest as to the French attitude, yet undisclosed, on the American proposal to use silver as part of the backing for currency.

While the French are firmly opposed to devaluation, it was suggested that if depreciation of nongold currencies made the French position difficult a moderate inflationary effect might be achieved by French use of some silver in their reserves, which would avoid outright depreciation.

It was noted with considerable interest at American delegation quarters that the title of the conference subcommittee to consider a permanent monetary standard merely mentioned "monetary standard" without reference to gold, evidently as a concession to the group favoring partial use of silver.

Cox Opens Session.

"Gentlemen, let's get down to work."

In this manner Mr. Cox opened the session of his monetary commission today and put business in diplomacy. Beside Mr. Cox was Ramsay MacDonald, British prime minister, president of the conference and chairman of the steering committee.

Meanwhile, the Germans threw a second political bombshell into the conference with a demand for the return of their colonies taken from them at the end of the war.

Since the conference was agitated by the injection of the war debt issue at the start, delegates seemed to grow reconciled today to the prospect of various countries airing their pet grievances regardless of the limitations of the agenda.

Ernest Smith Remains Active Head in Washington Offices of Association.

Thomas P. Henry, of Detroit, Mich., was reelected to head the American Automobile Association at its Thirty-first annual convention at the Willard Hotel yesterday. With his reelection, Mr. Henry begins his eleventh consecutive term.

Ernest N. Smith, of Washington, who has been in active charge of A. A. A. national headquarters for many years, continues under Mr. Henry as executive vice president.

The other officers named are Charles M. Hayes, Chicago, first vice president; S. Edward Gable, Lancaster, Pa., second vice president; Ralph E. Dugdale, Toledo, Ohio, third vice president; John H. Wright, Jamestown, N. Y., fourth vice president; Harry B. Kennedy, New Haven, Conn., fifth vice president; E. B. DeGolia, San Francisco, Calif., sixth vice president; Senator Robert R. Reynolds, Asheville, N. C., seventh vice president; Charles F. Foley, Lockport, N. Y., secretary, and George W. White, Washington, treasurer.

The convention adopted a set of resolutions which will be organized motordom's platform for the ensuing year. The more outstanding of these reaffirmed the position of the A. A. A. in favor of a general manufacturers' sales tax, with exemptions for food, clothing and medicine, in lieu of the existing Federal automotive excise levies; denounced the proposal for municipal registration fees and bridge tolls in New York City; opposed the use of Federal road funds as an excuse for the diversion of State highway monies, and indorsed the principle of legislation requiring state inspection of motor vehicle equipment.

Auto-Train

Crash at Grade Crossing Slightly Injures Man, Police Report.

Thrown from his automobile when the auto was struck by a Baltimore & Ohio express train yesterday at Branchville, Md., John D. L. Johnson, 3220 Connecticut avenue, escaped with minor injuries.

According to State police, Johnson was on his way to visit relatives who lived near Branchville. Approximately one-half mile above the station the gravel road, which runs parallel to the tracks, inclines to a grade crossing.

Johnson told the investigators that he saw no train approaching and subsequently started up the incline to cross the tracks. When directly on the tracks he was horrified to see No. 15, fast Baltimore & Ohio train, approaching not more than 100 feet away.

With a sudden burst of speed, he said, he attempted to clear the tracks. But it was too late. The train struck the rear end of the car, hurling it over a small embankment. Johnson was thrown clear of the wreckage. At the home of his relatives he was treated for minor cuts and bruises.

ROOSEVELT ON WAY TO MASSACHUSETTS

schooner Amberjack II for two weeks to be spent almost continuously at sea.

Campobello Island, just over the Canadian border from Maine, is his destination.

A slow, easy cruise of from 40 to 70 miles a day, depending upon the wind and weather, along the New England coast, with stops at night in convenient harbors, is the vacation program.

Motoring from Boston to Groton tomorrow, he will continue by automobile later in the day to Marion, Mass., where he boards the Amberjack.

Saturday night will be spent in harbor and on Sunday he will proceed to Woods Hole, where he will anchor in Nausahon Harbor.

Thence forward the trip is unscheduled, except for a stop at Portland, Me., next Friday, where Franklin and John will join the crew. James, the eldest son, will be with him from the start.

Asked tonight if he was going to do the navigating, as usual, Mr. Roosevelt replied:

"If I am not sleeping."

The Atlantic Coast line is familiar to the President. As a boy he sailed along this sea lane. He is regarded as an expert skipper.

Shaking off the cares of public life and the demands of public men about him, Mr. Roosevelt was accompanied northward only by members of his staff, Stephen T. Early, a secretary; Miss Marguerite Lehand, his personal secretary, and Henry Kannee of his office.

Upon reaching Campobello on June 28 he will remain a day and a night and then board the cruiser, Indianapolis, for its speed-trial run. He will leave the cruiser at the mouth of the Potomac and continue to Washington on a destroyer.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night, but it was expected burial would be in Greenville.

Weather Again Halts Italian Army Flight

Orbetello Airport, Italy, June 16 (U.P.).—Bad weather over the Italian and Swiss Alps made impossible the start tomorrow of the flight of 24 seaplanes from Italy to Chicago.

The fog lifted somewhat to the north, but rain and windstorms persisted over the mountains. Gen. Italo Balbo, air minister, leading the flight, indicated he hoped to start Sunday at the latest, if the forecast for better weather Saturday night materializes.

Kidnaping of Bride Charged to Mate

Denver, June 16 (A.P.).—Charges of kidnaping were filed here today against George Legler, 24, and his brothers, William and Charles, by Mrs. Thea Saunders, with whose daughter, Phyllis Nickerson, 14, George Legler eloped Wednesday night. All were jailed late today. The bride was held at the city detention home pending final outcome of the case.

Mrs. Saunders alleged that Legler forcibly abducted her daughter. She said he had courted the girl despite her protests. At first reported as a kidnaping, the girl's disappearance was revealed as an elopement, police said, when they learned the girl had secured a license Wednesday to marry Legler.

Mrs. Mamie Legler said she had accompanied her son on Wednesday night when he got Miss Nickerson at her grandmother's house. Mrs. Legler denied her son had abducted his bride.

Italy Pays Million On U. S. War Debt

Rome, June 16 (A.P.).—A partial payment yesterday of $1,000,000 in silver upon the Italian war debt to America was officially announced today by the government.

($18,545,000 was the sum which Italy was due to pay to the United States yesterday.)

This payment, the government said, was designed to demonstrate Italian good will. The government made known its view that the present condition puts a limitation on the expression of this good will.

The Fascist Grand Council invited Premier Mussolini in his capacity as foreign minister to begin negotiations for a final adjustment of the debt question before the next installment is due, December 15.

Weather Halts Church Festival.

Postponed last night on account of inclement weather, the open-air festival at the Church of the Transfiguration, Fourteenth and Gallatin streets northwest, will be held tonight, it is announced. The Boys' Independent Band will render music.

4-H VISITORS BUSY, DISREGARDING RAIN

Theater Party, Round Table Parley and Tours Keep Delegates Occupied.

Inured to outdoor life, 4-H Club members in annual session here disregarded dripping afternoon skies yesterday and went about their planned routine with buoyant enthusiasm. Last night the farm boys and girls took in a local theater en masse as a climax to a busy day.

As soon as breakfast is over today, the 4-H delegates will be addressed by Representative Marvin Jones, agricultural leader in the House of Representatives. A round-table conference will follow Representative Jones' address.

Next will come a State leaders' conference with Dr. C. B. Smith, presiding. Dr. V. E. Hart will discuss the "Economic Situation." The entire 4-H group will then go to the National Cathedral on Mount St. Albans as the first educational tour for the day. Following dinner, the club members will tour the Capitol, Supreme Court, taking in all interesting points of the legislative establishment.

The evening will be a restful one. There will be a great campfire after supper and at 10 o'clock "taps" will end the day's activity.

Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, yesterday addressed the 4-H boys and girls. He declared that progress of the Nation is dependent on the great rural and urban middle classes. Reactionaries and radicals, said Mr. Taber, form minorities which pull at opposite ends to obstruct progress.

Hindenburg's Campaign Aid Sentenced in Theft

Berlin, June 16 (A.P.).—Guenther Gereke, President von Hindenburg's campaign manager in last year's elections, was sentenced today to 30 months in prison and fined 100,000 marks (currently $28,480), by a court which found him guilty of embezzlement.

Gereke, commissar for work creation, sat on the ministerial bench during Chancellor Hitler's maiden speech before the Reichstag last March 23, at the conclusion of which his arrest was ordered by Capt. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, the Reichstag president, and Hitler's right-hand man in the cabinet.

Advertising Club Discusses Flying

Use of aviation in merchandising, selling and advertising was the subject of a discussion yesterday at a meeting of the Advertising Club of Washington led by William P. McCracken, jr., organizer of the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce.

"Anything that speeds up transportation in the marts of trade is a service to the advertising profession, and the advertiser has been quick to take advantage of the ease, speed and flexibility of aviation, he said.

Miss Grace Mary Colliflower, winner of second place in the national oratorical contest, gave the oration, "Thomas Jefferson, the Father of Constitutional Democracy." New members presented were A. C. Case, advertising and sales manager of the Palais Royal, and W. M. McNeill, of Ransdell, Inc.

State Police Sent To Virginia Strike

Richmond, Va., June 16 (A.P.).—Gov. Pollard today ordered 30 motor vehicle policemen to Bristol, where employes of the Big Jack Corporation, overall manufacturers, are on strike. The executive issued strict instructions that the men were not to be used unless it became apparent that local police were unable to handle the situation.

He said the men were ordered to Bristol at the request of Mayor W. H. Robertson, City Manager J. F. McCrary and Chief of Police J. G. Bordwine, who asked either National Guardsmen or motor vehicle police. Following a policy which he adopted some time ago, the governor sent motor vehicle officers.

In asking that State police be sent to the area, the Bristol officials told the governor that strikers had threatened to keep others out of the plant at the hour for its opening tomorrow.

U. S. Threatens To Dump Wheat

London, June 16 (A.P.).—Pressing for adoption of its program of restriction of production, the American delegation to the four-power wheat conference here today significantly called attention to the effect on the world market if the United States released upon it her surplus stocks of the cereal.

The American position, presented by Henry Morgenthau, sr., was supported by Prime Minister Bennett of Canada, who announced that three of the great wheat-growing western provinces of the Dominion were ready to cooperate in a move for limiting production. This permitted him, he said, to promise the support of the entire Dominion for the American scheme.

The Argentina and the Australian delegates this afternoon were unable to reach any decision.

4 Youths on Bond In Grave Opening

High Point, N. C., June 16 (A.P.).—Four youthful members of a secret high school club, arrested in connection with the opening of a woman's grave here, were released under bond today while officers continued an investigation on the theory the boys wanted a skeleton to use in club rites. Bond of $200 each was put for Evans Truesdale, 19; John Thomas, 18; Charles Drakulakas, 17, and James Giancullis, 17.

The four were arrested last night at the grave of a local woman. All wore pins, inscribed with a skeleton, emblematic of membership in the "Famous Order of Gambolicks."

Police said the grave had been opened previously. The coffin was overturned, but apparently had not been opened. The boys denied having disturbed the grave, but said they planned to hold a meeting at the spot.

CLOUDS HIDING FATE OF JIMMIE MATTERN

Even If Fuel Is Gone, Nome Feels Flier Has Equal Chance for Life.

Nome, Alaska, June 16 (A.P.).—Clouds and fogs which kept Alaska planes grounded today concealed the fate of Jimmie Mattern, Texas aviator, who hopped off Wednesday from Khavarovsk, Siberia, for Nome on his round-the-world flight.

Even were weather conditions favorable, a search for Mattern would be comparable to looking for the proverbial needle in the haystack—he might be anywhere within an area of thousands of square miles of sparsely inhabited land, isolated by lack of speedy communication with the outside world.

The flier's fuel supply would have been exhausted at 8:30 p. m. (Eastern standard time) last night had he remained in the air, but Nomeites believed he had come down somewhere many hours before that.

While the perils which faced Mattern on the 2,500-mile flight over desolate land and inhospitable sea were great, it was believed here that his chances of survival were at least equal.

Numerous small settlements of natives and traders are scattered along the Bering Sea rim. If Mattern's plane was damaged in landing it might be weeks before he would be able to reach a place where he could send out word, even with the willing cooperation of the natives.

D. C. Realty Chief Sees Tax Revisions

Chicago, June 16 (A.P.).—W. C. Miller, Washington, D. C., president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, told delegates at the annual convention today that the organization was working toward a program of better mortgage financing and a more equitable tax situation.

"We are in the midst of a tremendous new evolution of mortgage machinery," he said, "and also in the midst of a tax revolution."

When the mortgage situation is stabilized and the tax burden equalized he predicted a widening of home ownership on a sounder business and social basis than ever before in the history of the country. In commenting upon current business trends he said the real estate market was looking up and would go forward unbridled if it were not for foreclosures and a complete lack of mortgage money.

Ford Sees R. F. C. As Form of Dole

Detroit, June 16 (A.P.).—The shortest cut to the restoration of economic balance, Henry Ford said in an interview today, is the elimination of the "dole system," and one of the quickest ways to eliminate the dole, he added, is to "get rid of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation."

"Recovery," Mr. Ford said, "can come only up through the people, not down through financial or political schemes. We must put work everywhere—not the kind of work that pays a dole, but a wage with a margin."

"The R. F. C.," he said, "is nothing more than a systematized dole. It doesn't relieve anybody and as long as it continues to function as the distributor of the dole, we can not look to it for lasting improvement in economic conditions."

30-CENT PER BUSHEL WHEAT TAX SLATED

Wallace's wheat program took into consideration acreage reduction resulting from natural factors this year, and no attempt will be made to reduce the growing crop.

Farmers will be offered contracts to reduce the acreages for harvest next year and the following year, and two-thirds of bonuses to be raised by the processing taxes will be paid them as a consideration when they sign these agreements.

Wallace said these payments would be made for the most part by September 15 and that this distribution of cash would aid in business recovery. By paying parts of the bonuses this summer, he believes farmers whose acreage has been sharply cut by winter kill and bad weather in the last nine months will realize a form of crop insurance.

He said the maximum acreage cut would be 20 per cent. The exact reduction will not be determined until the world wheat conference at London has explored fully the possibilities of an international reduction program for Canada, Argentina, Australia and this country.

The maximum tax, which Wallace will levy, is the difference between the current farm price of wheat and the "parity" price based on prewar averages. The "parity" price can vary.

The act sets as its goal the return of farm purchasing power to the average for the 1909-14 period. Thus, to attain "parity" the price of wheat must bear the same relationship to the price of goods farmers buy as the price of wheat bore to these goods in the prewar period.

If wheat prices fall before the tax goes into effect the maximum Wallace could levy might be more than 30 cents. He expects to put the tax into effect between July 1 and 15.

Wallace estimated that not more than 2 cents a bushel would be required to meet all administrative costs.

George N. Peek and Charles J. Brand, administrators, who were with Wallace when he outlined the program, announced appointment of Frederick Klemson Howe, of New York City, formerly of Cleveland, as chief of the trade agreement section of the farm act administration, in charge of wheat and other commodities on which agreements will be sought.

Pan-American Hiker Here

New York Youth Plans to Reach Buenos Aires on $150 Through Mexico, Central America to Chile and Across the Andes.

It's a long, long trail, but when John E. White finally reaches Buenos Aires, via the foot and thumb route, he will be the first person to have hiked from the United States to Argentina.

A sort of good will ambassador at large, White, who is 21 years old, started on his foot tour from his home in Oswego, N. Y., last Monday and arrived in this city yesterday.

A brief stay here to get acquainted with the consulates of the South American republics and White will leave for the Mexican border visiting New Orleans and San Antonio en route.

Arriving at the border he will equip himself with ammunition and will continue his journey afoot through the desert regions of Mexico and the wild jungles of Central America. His travels will take him along the foot of the rugged Andes Mountains to Santiago and then across South America to his destination; a total of 6,000 miles.

White began his career as an adventurer several years ago when he made a tour of the world by working on steamers. At the first port of call of the ship he was working, White would leave and explore. He rejoined the ship when his curiosity was satisfied.

The South American trip will cost less than $150, he said. It will take about 18 months and he expects to finance the journey by lectures on his experiences and adventures. He speaks Spanish and Italian fluently.

Murphy Tackles Isles' School Fund

Manila, June 16 (A.P.).—The pressing problem of school funds was tackled today by Frank Murphy, former Detroit Mayor, in his first day as Governor General of the Philippine Islands.

Mr. Murphy summoned education and finance officials to meet here with him tomorrow, two days before the scheduled general reopening of the schools.

Luther B. Bewley, director of the government bureau of education, told the governor general the last Legislature's reduction of school funds by $1,623,000 meant the laying off of 6,500 of the 29,000 teachers in the Philippine school system. He said $1,270,000 would be needed to keep all schools open until next March, when the regular vacation starts. The insular cabinet already has voted to make $225,000 available.

Dr. Forney Hutchinson, pastor of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, delivered the address to the graduates at Hyattsville High School graduation exercises. Music for the occasion was furnished by the high school glee club and orchestra.

The exercises saw the retirement of K. J. Morris, who 19 years ago founded the school and who has been connected with it since as principal. Mr. Morris presented the diplomas to the graduates.

John Tucker, of Darwyn, Md., was given the Sons of the American Revolution Citizenship Medal. The honor was officially awarded Tucker by Dr. Charles E. Norman Davis' Brother Denies Reports of Shift

(Associated Press.)

Commissioner Erwin L. Davis, of the Federal Trade Commission, said yesterday that reports his brother, Norman H. Davis, would be selected to head the Corporation of Foreign Securities Holders under the Federal securities act were "without the slightest basis in fact."

In a simultaneous statement Chairman Charles H. March of the commission said there was "nothing whatever to reports" the commission was planning to begin making appointments to the Corporation of Foreign Securities Holders.

2 Virginians Promoted To Lieutenant Colonels

(Associated Press.)

Two Virginians were promoted yesterday to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel in the Regular Army.

Robert Goolrick, of Fredericksburg, was advanced to that grade in the Air Corps, and Walter P. Boatwright, of New Canton, in the Ordnance Department.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY.

THE Federal Diary will sponsor a salt-water fishing rodeo in Chesapeake Bay, July 22, in cooperation with the With Outdoorsmen column of The Washington Post and Washington Chapter, I. W. L. A. This should be good news to Lon A. Schimpf, Federal Trade Commission; Clarence Weidemann, Coast and Geodetic Survey; Tom C. Gale, Aeronautics; Sam Marks, Treasury; Leland Acuff, Justice, and others who know where the fish are to be found and how best to engage their interest.

Francis D. Barstow.

Francis D. Barstow, Postoffice Department, retired, who has been at the helm in countless former such contests, has consented to steer the big party on this occasion. Mr. Barstow last night announced he was compiling a list of men whose interest in things piscatorial will make the rodeo the biggest thing of its kind ever held in waters around Washington.

Prizes, cash and merchandise, and prizes worthy of the sportsmen's efforts, will be awarded. Big boats will be used, basing from Tilghman Island. It will be a chance for those men who have had scant luck in fresh water this season. It will introduce men to what is regarded as the best fishing grounds between Maine and Florida.

It is suggested you watch the Federal Diary column and With Outdoorsmen for details to be unfolded. This is the bare announcement. There will be many interesting details. There undoubtedly will be more lines, hooks and sinkers in Chesapeake Bay July 22 than have been in that water for many moons. In selecting July 22, Mr. Barstow finds the moon phase right. The boys in Coast and Geodetic Survey (and don't let anyone tell you they don't know their tides and currents) will add their bits of interesting data to the big game.

This is just another of a series of parties the Federal Diary has arranged and will plan for Federal employes. It will be up to the standard The Federal Diary likes to maintain. More details as the days roll by. Registration will be opened in a very short while.

HARRY B. MITCHELL, president of the Civil Service Commission and chairman of the Council of Personnel Administration, makes this statement:

A misunderstanding has arisen regarding the relation of transfers from one department to another and certification from reemployment registers when the Civil Service Commission is called upon to make certifications for filling vacancies.

The fact is that those whose names are on the reemployment registers are certified at once. The implication that reemployment people are not considered if people for transfer are available is not correct. Every announcement of vacancies that has been sent to the departments has carried the following statement: "These positions are to be filled if possible, in accordance with the plan of the Council of Personnel Administration, by transfer of employes now in the service or thorugh the reemployment registers."

STRAIGHT FROM THE HEART.

A Government clerk one fine June day, sat down to budget his meager pay. The rent took this, the groceries that; the dentist and doctor bills were "fat." The ice and milk men called each day. Those service bills he surely must pay.

Susie needed shoes, the wife claimed a hat. Johnny was pleading for a ball and bat. What, oh what could the poor clerk do! The Economy bill had just gone through. He "figgered" and "figgered" till dawn's early light. And the longer he tried, the worse seemed his plight. So he tore up the paper and threw down the pen, went off the gold standard and is paying—guess when!

THE 1933 PSALM.

The politician is my shepherd (I am in want); he maketh me lie down on park benches, he leadeth me beside the still factories; he disturbeth my soul; yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of depression, I anticipate no recovery, for he is with me. He prepareth a reduction in my salary in the presence of my enemies; he anointeth my small income with great losses; my expenses runneth over. Surely unemployment and poverty shall follow me all the days of my life and I shall dwell in a mortgaged house forever.—Lithographers' Journal.

The Maiden's Prayer.

SOME TIME ago Mrs. Mayhem retired from the D. D. L., Postoffice Department, but she comes in occasionally to visit with her former fellow workers. She still claims that Gracie Allen, star of the radio and screen, is getting lots of stuff she pulls off from her.

The subject of her discourse on the occasion of her last call was piano playing and particularly the rendition of that popular classic, "The Maiden's Prayer," which is generally accompanied by the imprecations of neighbors within hearing distance when it is played.

It seems that a contest of this kind between the granddaughter of Mrs. Mayhem, named Susie, and the child of a friend, named Mary, as to who could execute in the most painless manner "The Maiden's Prayer," had been played off and with the verdict in favor of Mary.

Mrs. Mayhem opined that the reason why Mary's playing was considered better was because the sheet of music she played from had been purchased from a music store on G street, in this city, while the copy Susie used had been sent from New York by an aunt living there.

Dick Cost, the office cut-up, said perhaps Mary was more pious, but Mrs. Mayhem would not have it that way because she said that Susie had not missed attending the movies on Sunday for nearly two years—Charles J. Simpson.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Federal Employes Housing Association, sealed bids for construction of homes for its members were opened and work was awarded to C. H. Galliher and O. T. & W. A. Carr, of Washington, says L. L. Collie, chairman.

A two-story, six-room brick detached house was used as a basis for bidding, with the understanding that the various types of homes selected by the members would be constructed at comparative costs.

On account of the rising market, the present material prices quoted in the bids hold good only until June 30.

The plans and specifications covering the stock house and types of contracts were approved by members and friends in the Bureau of Standards, Supervising Architect's Office and the Department of Justice.

At frequent intervals the builders will notify members of the association to appear at their offices and select the type of home and location they desire.

There are sites available in the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia for those who do not own their own lots.

Other building projects under names similar to that of this association have no connection with this movement on the part of Government employes.

By MARY BLAKE.

"GEMINI."

IF June 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:30 a. m. to 8 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:20 p. m. and from 10:30 p. m. to 11:20 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:15 a. m. to 10:40 a. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m.

The child born on this June 17 will undoubtedly be a loving little one. Quite unaware of it, he will cause a good deal of discord in the family. It is possible that one or the other of his parents will be quite jealous of the love and affection he will direct toward the other one. He will probably leave home at a rather young age.

If June 17 is the date of your birth, a desire to serve and to help others over the rough spots of life's way will stand out in your character. This desire you may satisfy in any one of many ways. You may seek to establish yourself financially by means of a business career, then turn your funds into channels where they will be useful to large groups of mankind. You may turn to the ministry and seek to guide others spiritually. You may feel that you can best help people by devoting your time and attention to social service work.

Born on June 17, it is quite possible that you will not marry at all; if you do, you may not lead as happy a life as you would if you remained single. You are extremely fond of children and you attract them to you. The idea of parenthood, however, does not appeal strongly.

Securities Buying Opposed.

London, June 16 (A.P.).—Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain today sent a letter to the stock exchange requesting members to discourage the purchase of large blocks of foreign securities for the present.

BY-LAWS ORDERED FOR HAMILTON BANK

Group Is Appointed to Draft Regulations as Stock Drive Nears Goal.

On announcement from the general subscription committee that stock subscriptions for the proposed Hamilton National Bank of Washington now total more than $1,100,000 of the necessary $1,250,000 to organize, the organization committee for the prospective institution yesterday appointed a subcommittee to draft by-laws.

The organization committee's subcommittee appointed to pass on the assets of the seven restricted local banks now participating in the Hamilton plan, has reviewed the assets of three of the institutions and will continue an examination of those of the remaining four.

The subcommittee selected to submit additional names for the new bank's board of directors was given further time for its work, as was the subcommittee entrusted with selection of those of the ten bank buildings to be retained as branches of Hamilton Bank. The latter committee is now read yto negotiate with conservators regarding the taking over of certain buildings.

Questioned regarding the possibility of Park Savings Bank entering the Hamilton plan, Edwin C. Graham, who has been chosen president of the latter institution, said that its organizers are willing to do anything practical in furnishing the community with banking service and that they will remain open to any suggestion that may come from representatives of this bank's depositors and stockholders. Barring a special call, the organization committee will hold its next meeting on Friday at 4 p. m. at the main office of the Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co.

Interest on interest-bearing deposits in the seven banks to form the Hamilton Bank will be paid to their depositors up to March 5, it was reported yesterday, decision having been reached to make this date uniform. No interest will be paid on these accounts, however, between March 5 and the date of the Hamilton Bank's opening, the component banks having been on a restricted basis during that period.

Hamilton Project Lauded by Hecht's

Declaring opening of the Hamilton National Bank is an important movement toward keeping Washington in step with the national program for recovery, the Hecht Co. last night announced a subscription of $5,000 to the stock of the new financial institution and invited other local firms to follow suit.

The firm called attention to the need of $300,000 which, added to that already subscribed, would open the new bank. Ten million dollars, said the Hecht announcement, is tied up. It declared 70,000 people are affected and would get at least half of their funds available immediately with opening of the Hamilton bank. The announcement said, in part:

"We sincerely believe that it is a good investment, that we will get our money back and more. We are pretty certain that of the $10,000,000 released Washington merchants will get a fair portion of these funds back in the shape of increased business."

METROPOLITAN

"GOLD DIGGERS OF 1933." Warner Brothers picturization of a story by Erwin Gelzey and James Seymour, based on the comedy by Avery Hopwood. Featuring Ruby Keeler, Aline MacMahon, Ginger Rogers, Joan Blondell, Dick Powell, Warren William, Guy Kibbee and Ned Sparks. Music and lyrics by Harry Warren and Al Dubin. Directed by Mervyn LeRoy.

If numerous and varied elements of popular appeal are at all to be relied upon as box-office magnets, it was inevitable that "Gold Diggers of 1933" should entice its overflow crowds from the Earle over to the Metropolitan to inaugurate its second triumphant week in Washington.

In addition to the basic structure of the Avery Hopwood farce, from which it derives its name, this opulent musical extravaganza presents many of the more exciting qualities of musical comedy and offers a finale of overpowering pageantry.

Several of the most expansive scenes of the play are made doubly impressive by use of photographic innovations that lend the pageantry an impetus it would not otherwise number among its most valuable assets. This is notably true in the spectacular "Shadow Waltz" number and in the tremendously dramatic "Forgotten Man" finale.

All of this mechanical perfection would go for naught, of course, if the cast was not completely up to the tasks allotted it. Ruby Keeler, Dick Powell, Joan Blondell, Aline MacMahon, Warren William, Ginger Rogers, Guy Kibbee, Ned Sparks, Tammany Young, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Clarence Nordstrom, Robert Agnew and one of the most gorgeous galaxies of girls ever assembled for the cameras all contribute to the sensational success that has been scored by this second, big Warner musical production of the season.

Not to see it is to be miles back of the head of the cinema's endless procession.

PALACE

"COLLEGE HUMOR." Paramount picturization of a story by Dean Fales, with music and lyrics by Sam Coslow and Arthur Johnston, featuring Bing Crosby, Richard Arlen, Mary Carlisle, Jack Oakie, Mary Kornman, Burns & Allen and Lona Andre. Directed by Wesley Ruggles. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

By being neither continuously gay nor continuously dull, this peculiarly spotty and uneven picture strikes a fair approximation of the exhilaration actually to be derived from life at our representative institutions of higher learning. College life is neither all frolic nor all heartache, but these aspects of it that might appropriately be assembled under the blanket heading of "College Humor" one might reasonably expect to be not quite so stale as some of the major incidents now on view at the Palace.

The whole basic idea in "College Humor" is trite. The star athlete, relied upon to win the game for dear old Midwest from its ancient epemy, Yarwood, is expelled just before the game; his arch-rival for the favor of his roommate's kid sister is a handsome young member of the college faculty, the professor of Thespic arts; the frat dance is all but broken up by the drunken back's intrusion; he is in the stands during the crucial game and watches his second-string roommate convert a 13-to-0 defeat into a 14-to-13 victory in the last minute of play.

All might easily be forgiven, were it not for that gridiron hero business with which the picture strains for its climax. That was first done in the first college-sweetheart-football picture ever made and has been in constant use as a bit of sure-fire hokum ever since!

This familiar framework is tricked up, of course, with some catchy tunes, a superabundance of the spirit of youth, a modicum of comedy and some surprisingly deft work on the part of some of the principals from whom it is least expected. It may be a summer resort rather than a scholastic atmosphere that is created, but it is all handsomely environed and effectively photographed.

Bing Crosby, as Prof. Frederick Danvers, who reprises a melodious hope that all of his pupils will "Learn to Croon," has never sung better than in this odd reflection of America's rhythmic educational processes and, incidentally, plays his agreeably satirical role as well as he croons it—which is very high praise, indeed.

Richard Arlen goes almost tragically dramatic, as the star football player who drinks himself out of college, and Jack Oakie does the best he can with the conspicuous role of the roommate packed tight with material that is not all as cleverly contrived as it should be to permit him to show to best advantage.

The surprise of the picture is platinum Mary Carlisle. Miss Carlisle seems about to have graduated from her preparatory course on the M-G-M lot—from which she was borrowed by Paramount for this role—and to be ready to give a fine account of herself from now on as one of the most seductive young sirens in the film colony. It is not too soon for Jean Harlow to begin worrying about her.

Mary Kornman, the former Little Mary of the "Our Gang" comedies; Lona Andre, a miniature edition of the "panther girl;" Joe Sauers, Howard Jones, Eddie Nugent, and Lumsden Hare are among those in support who contribute most generously to the interest of the fluctuating goings-on. Gracie Allen and George Burns are practically wasted in parts that one needs a pair of binoculars to find.

A Mickey Mouse cartoon comedy, "Mickey's Mechanical Man," a little below par; a Bray Naturgraph, "Giants of the North," devoted to whales, salmon and Alaskan brown bears; one of Sewell Ford's Torchy comedies, with Ray Cooke, "Torchy Turns Turtle," and the Metrotone News complete a variegated and diverting, if not especially distinguished, bill.

EARLE

"I LOVE THAT MAN." Paramount picturization of an original screen story by Gene Towne and Graham Baker, featuring Edmund Lowe, Nancy Carroll, Robert Armstrong and Warren Hymer. Directed by Harry Joe Brown. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

'Tis a gala occasion, an old home week, or what have you, down at Thirteenth and E streets this week, with plenty of action and a whole flock of old, well-wearing friends, blending comedy and tragedy to suit the most discriminating taste.

First of all is the overture to the opera "Il Guarany," from the pen of Brazil's prolific Carlos Gomez, a masterful rendition of this work, under the direction of Charles Frederick Clark.

Then the stage show, introduced by Washington's sweetheart, Maxine Doyle, togged out in another array of summer gowns. The bill is composed of sure-fire hits, topped by the slapstick clowning of Frank Mitchell and Jack Durant, who can not only dish it out but take it aplenty! The dance team of Dick and Edith Barstow needs no introduction, especially Dick's toe dancing. Then there's Walters and Walters, with "Agnes, Frankie and the baby," ventriloquists and their playmates, whose act has imitators but absolutely no peers.

Of the Stewart Sisters, it may be said that they sing in the manner of the Boswell girls, but much better, with more delightful harmony. Especially noteworthy is Bubbles' swell imitation of Joe Penner that lacks only the war—even the duck's there!

On the screen "Pifi" takes precedence over any other item, a tabloid review of Victor Herbert's immortal "Mlle. Modiste," with Vivienne Segal and Charles Judels. A grand performance it is, and one that follows with fidelity the original operetta.

For the sportsman, and especially the golfer, is "Position and Backswing," No. 2 of Bobby Jones' series on "How to Break 90." The current release features Guy Kibbee as Mr. Jones' stooge.

There was something else on this besides an issue of the Universal News. Oh, yes, "I Love That Man!"

Here Edmund Lowe depicts a con man who, through the ministrations of Nancy Carroll, goes straight selling glass caskets. It is a grand racket until Robert Armstrong and Warren Hymer, whom Mr. Lowe earlier had double-crossed, appear on the scene. And in the end Mr. Lowe goes tragic by dying of revolver wounds just as the good parson gets to "I pronounce you man and wife."

Were it not for the other superior parts of the program, the feature picture would be outstanding, for it is a well-acted, directed and photographed yarn, which, besides those already mentioned, has in it Lew Cody, Dorothy Burgess, Walter Walker, Harvey Clark, Luis Alberni and Grant Mitchell.

RKO-KEITH'S

"INDIA SPEAKS." RKO-Radio's release of Walter Futter's composite of tragicomic and dramatic sequences, filmed in India and Hollywood, with Richard Halliburton as principal figure and narrator. Reviewed Friday morning.

Those portions of this hybrid film which are devoted to authentic, penetrating and vivid studies of the seething life of India are searchingly and profoundly impressive. The obviously "staged" episodes, interlarded with the bona-fide camera record of a land of startling contrasts, weird customs and horrifying squalor, ostensibly to lend the recital a dramatic continuity, fall something short of the ideal of creative invention.

In rigging up a fantastic legend of a half-caste white girl, about to be subjected to the hideous ordeal of becoming the immaculate mother of the new "living god" in the isolated confines of a rockbound Lamaserie high in the mountain fastnesses of Tibet, Mr. Fuller has reduced a potentially fine travel picture to the crudely fictional level of "The Blonde Captive," in which, it will be recalled, an expedition in search of the Neanderthal Man discovered a white woman living in soiled contentment with a race of Antipodean aborigines. In this unfortunate movement of its otherwise interesting narrative "India Speaks" is no more convincing than its palpably imaginative predecessor.

The strictly observational and exploratory sequences of "India Speaks" are not all pleasant to contemplate. The self-inflicted tortures of the religious fanatics, the battle to the death—reminiscent of "Bring 'Em Back Alive"—between a lion and a tiger, the spectacle of a horse dashed to death in an accidental plunge down a rocky mountainside and the close-up depiction of human cremation are not for those of delicate sensibilities.

On the other hand, the lion hunt on elephant-back — there are, it seems, a few lions left in certain jungles in India—in which a 4-mile circle of elephants and beaters closes in on the prey; the strange rites at Benares, the chant of the muezzin in Delhi, the beauties of Kashmir and the snowy trek by camel across the high Himalayas, are informative, picturesque and in consonance with one of the exalted functions of the cinema.

Richard Halliburton, visible off and on throughout the screening of the picture, as one of the principal actors in its thread of story, is an interesting and literate commentator who by his inflections now and again betrays a haunting consciousness that he must become a dramatic elocutionist for the nonce, to gloss over the film's more flagrant lapses from a strict adherence to fact.

There is so much that is fine in "India Speaks" that it is lamentable that any of it had to be fabricated.

A "Four-Star Organlogue," availing itself of the talents of Lew White at the console; Arthur Tracy, the "Street Singer;" Donald Novis, Singin' Sam and Ralph Kirberry lend the bill a rich musical touch.

Tom Howard, in "Honesty Pays—But Not Much;" a Krazy Kat cartoon, "House Cleaning" and the Pathe News complete an entertainment that at least dares to venture off the beaten track.

LOEW'S FOX

"I LOVED YOU WEDNESDAY." Fox picturization of the play by Wally Ricardel and William DuBois, starring Warner Baxter and Elissa Landi, with Laura Hope Crews, Victor Jory and Miriam Jordan. Directed by Henry King and William Cameron Menzies. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

One day of love, Wednesday or any other, would be quite long enough at the rate of speed at which this drama drags itself along.

Of the stage play, New York critics unanimously used the word "glib." The only thing glib about this version is Elissa Landi and she works extremely hard at her glibness.

One Vickie, who wants to be a dancer, wants more to go to Brittany with one Randall, who wants to be an architect if he has time between pleasure trips. Unfortunately, their Brittany train is scheduled to pull out of Paris station at just about the time Ran's wife, Cynthia (whose existence dear, little glib Vickie has never guessed) is due to reach Cherbourg, so Ran meets a boat instead of a train.

Vickie finds another man, Philip Fletcher, on her way up to the heights of being a world famous dancer and so eventually, as you've known all along they would, the three get together and Vickie just can't decided whether to go with Philip on his yacht or with Ran on his bigger boat, the Ile de France. We don't think you'll care.

Of the quartet of principals needed for this drama, we liked only Warner Baxter; but then, we always do like him and feel perfectly justified in doing so. He makes Philip very human and very nice and much too good for Vickie.

Miss Landi tries considerably harder, and therefore less successfully, to be spontaneous than she did in "The Warrior's Husband," and, sadly enough, she is less graceful, when called upon to be a dancer in a very handsomely staged ballet, than she was as a gate-leaping warrior in the Amazon epic.

Victor Jory is smooth enough as Randall, while Miriam Jordan is pretty, but pretty vapid, as his Cynthia. The most refreshing female in the affair is Laura Hope Crews, playing a very brief bit as the masseuse.

Oh, yes, the title. Well, Edna St. Vincent Millay once wrote:

"And if I loved you Wednesday,
Well, what is that to you?
I do not love you Thursday—
So much is true."

On the stage, there is the Notre Dame Glee Club to get enthusiastic about. We liked their college numbers, their beautiful "Santa Maria" (the title's just a guess), their tribute to the immortal Rockne, particularly the solo in this, and everything about the program, except its shortness.

We liked also the Sibyl Bowan impressions, which are somewhat of the old school, with wigs and costumes as important as voice. Her impressions of Garbo, Marlene and Mae West are the most impressive.

Costa and Dare open the program with a dance act, and Bert Gordon, champion waster of time, upholds his championship offensively in the second spot.

The orchestra, led by Phil Lampkin, in "The Second Hungarian Rhapsody," a Walter Catlett comedy and the newsreel complete the bill.

JURISDICTION HELD LACKING OVER CASE

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Cla. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Opinion by Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas that Arlington County has no jurisdiction over criminal cases on Government roads within the county yesterday brought to a sudden end the case of George Taylor charged with operating an automobile while intoxicated within the Fort Myer Military Reservation.

The question arose when Taylor was arrested last Sunday by military police and brought to the Arlington County Jail at request of military authorities by County Officer Edward Duncan.

Taylor was brought before County Judge B. M. Hedrick Monday and when question of jurisdiction was raised by his counsel, former State Senator Frank L. Ball, the case was continued until yesterday.

Taylor, out on bond, must answer to military authorities.

Raiding the home of Mark Anthony, colored, at East Arlington, Arlington County, yesterday afternoon, Sheriff Howard B. Fields, Deputy Sheriff Harry L. Woodyard and Officers Ernest Miller, Hugh Jones and Edward Duncan seized more than 300 gallons of alleged liquor.

After smashing several barrels and kegs, the officers brought a large quantity of the alleged liquor to the county jail as evidence. Anthony was charged with illegal possession.

Continuing their search in the vicinity of Anthony's home, the officers found stills and mash in a large double house rented by him.

Armed with hatchets and hammers, barrels were soon smashed and the contents poured out.

Health Officer Warns Against Potomac Waters

Dr. William L. Schafer, city health officer of Alexandria, yesterday issued a warning against persons bathing in the waters of the Potomac River, owing to the fact that the waters within the corporate limits of Alexandria are polluted, and he fears may cause illness.

The Police Department has placed warning signs at various points on the river front where boys have been accustomed to swim.

hand on the conference even at 3,000 miles distance. For this purpose he is preparing a system of relays, by which he will be constantly refreshed with the latest and most complete account of all that is being done in London. American Minister to Canada, Warren Delano Robbins, who accompanied the American delegation to London as a Canadian expert, will soon be returning here and he will be the bearer of the latest bulletins from the scene of the discussions. Soon after that Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley will leave for London on the American steamer Manhattan, June 21, and will remain there for about a fortnight.

The American monetary delegates to the London discussions bore with them no specialized plan for stabilization of currencies, despite what has been cabled from abroad. The dollar was removed from the gold standard, despite an increase over the preceding year in gold reserves of the Federal Reserve. Additional reason for the embargo was given in the increase of commodity prices, which had been well on the way to a higher economic plateau in the autumn of 1933. Following the gold embargo there was increased buying which drove commodity prices to higher levels.

Equal Chance Provided.

The Japanese yen, the British pound and other currencies, temporarily departed from the precious metal, were for a long time at a decided advantage in quoting prices to foreign buyers. Dollar exporters can now meet the competition for world markets with equal chances.

The selection of former Gov. Cox as chairman of the extremely important monetary committee at the London conference was regarded in many quarters as a diplomatic victory for the United States. This is the subcommittee which will most particularly take up the details of stabilization and trim the differences in the various nationalistic programs.

However, the selection of French Finance Minister Georges Bonnet, one of the great financial minds of the world today, to the important post of secretary or rapporteur general is sufficient indication that the struggle for stabilization will have worthy and active representation from gold-standard countries like France, Switzerland and Belgium.

The anxiety of the French representatives to secure even a de facto stabilization may well be caused by the increasing uneasiness they feel at the steady growth of nongold standard countries and their commercial advantage which depreciated money temporarily gives.

Pied Piper

Is S O S Call of Residents Menaced by Rats in Chevy Chase.

District officials felt like paging George J. Adams, jr., yesterday despite his frequent clashes with the Commissioners during his tenure as executive secretary of the District Committee on Employment almost two years ago.

The Health Department has received complaints from residents in the vicinity of Thirty-seventh and Albemarle streets northwest against the growing menace of rats who have taken up their abode in a city dump thereabouts. Health Officer Fowler has listened sympathetically, but he says he has no facilities for destroying the rats without endangering children.

Other officials recalled the days when Mr. Adams, attired in full evening dress, declared formal war on a much larger army of rats uncovered during the razing of the old Center Market. The rats, while inclined to scoff at the challenge, finally disappeared, and Mr. Adams gained widespread glory.

Arlington Couple Observe 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Bradford's Friends Gather at Son's Home.

Surrounded by members of the family and a number of friends from Mount Morris, Pa., where 50 years ago they were married, Mr. and Mrs. John Morris Bradford celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary yesterday at the home of their son, Ralph M. Bradford, in Clarendon.

An interesting feature of the event is the fact that their only son and daughter-in-law, with whom they are making their home, is at the same time celebrating their eighth wedding anniversary.

Mr. Bradford was born in Waynesboro, W. Va., while his wife was born near Morgantown, Pa. For many years their home was in Texas, where Mrs. Bradford was a pioneer in the agricultural development of south Texas. Later they came to Washington and made their home in Chevy Chase. About three years ago they came to Arlington County, making their home with their son.

U. S. INVESTORS LOSE ON GERMAN CREDITS

New "Standstill" Agreement Will Cause Losses of 5 to 7 Per Cent.

London, June 16 (U.P.).—Investors in the United States who hold short-term German credits, long overdue, will take a considerable loss under a new "standstill" agreement reached here today.

These American investors will sacrifice from 5 to 7 per cent on their money tied up in these short-term loans alone, not including huge long-term agreements, it was learned.

The representatives of American interests at today's conference of Germany's creditors and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, said they figured it was better to take a slight loss and get something out of these credits than seek to collect and probably get nothing.

They were faced with the exchange moratorium declared by the Reichsbank some days ago, which goes into effect July 1, and agreed to renounce their right to repayment of capital in foreign currencies on approximately 80,000,000 marks (about $22,792,000) that will fall due before the current "standstill," or moratorium, expires next February.

They further agreed to accept a reduction in interest rates on these investments from an average now of 4¾ per cent to 4¼ per cent. The creditors—American, Dutch, Swiss, British, French and Scandinavian banks—have approximately 3,600,000,000 marks ($1,025,640,000) in short-term investments frozen in Germany.

Leadbetter Store Is Sold at Auction

Yesterday marked the passing of another of the old business landmarks of Alexandria, when the stock and fixtures of the Leadbeater Drug Co., established in 1792 and patronized by George and Martha Washington, Robert E. Lee and many other personages, were sold at auction, the firm having become bankrupt and discontinued business since the recent death of Edward Stabler Leadbeater.

The sale attracted many collectors, but treasured relics such as appliances and apparatus used when the drug business in this country was in its infancy, letters, signatures, ancient prescriptions and like antiques, were withheld from the sale. This, it was explained, was because it had been impossible to list them properly.

DISTRICT BILL OF CUT FUNDS BECOMES LAW

$570,000 appropriation—the Woodrow Wilson High School and the Logan Elementary High School.

The Highway Department's testing laboratory and the Georgetown and Southeast incinerators must close down by July 1 for lack of funds.

Senator King said yesterday he is keeping in close touch with Mr. Roberts and Maj. Donovan, assigned as agents of the Senate District Committee in making preliminary studies with a view to general reorganization of the District government when Congress returns in January.

A meeting of the reorganization subcommittee will be called before the Utah senator returns home next month. Senator King conferred yesterday with Mr. Roberts, just returned from Chicago, where he talked with Louis Brownlow, former District Commissioner, and an authority on both the commission and city manager forms of government.

Milk Price Investigation.

Agents of the Department of Agriculture may be called before the milk investigating subcommittee Monday, when it meets for the purpose of reorganization, Senator King said.

The Senate District Committee chairman made known that Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), New York, has resigned from the subcommittee. It is expected Senator Patrick McCarran (Democrat), Nevada, will be named in his stead.

The subcommittee is endeavoring to discover why local milk prices are higher than in any other locality, following an expose of the situation in The Washington Post.

RAIL UNIONS REFUSE ALL WAGE SLASHES

Meanwhile Steel Industry Gives Employes More Voice in Business.

Chicago, June 16 (A.P.).—Union railroad officials announced flatly today they would accept no reduction in wages and characterized the roads' demand for a 22½ per cent slice as "just a bluff."

Going even further, Chairman Alexander A. F. Whitney, of the Railway Labor Executives Association, declared he expected a 10 per cent deduction from pay envelopes to be discontinued next November 1.

Youngstown, Ohio, June 16 (A.P.).—Even as President Roosevelt was signing the national industrial recovery act today, the steel industry was moving in several sectors to give employes a greater voice in its management as a direct result of that act.

Approximately 7,500 employes of the Republic Steel Corporatio in this and the Warren district today were nominating 18 representatives to act for them on a joint committee in all matters relating to wages, working conditions, welfare, sanitation and general conditions affecting workers and the company.

Similar nominations were going forward in district plants of the company at Cleveland; Chicago, Canton, Massillon and Buffalo, officials said.

A similar employe representation plan was announced almost simultaneously by the Carnegie Steel Co. in notices posted in its plants here and at Pittsburgh.

Miller and Capt. Richard C. D. Hunt, members of the executive committee. Lieut. L. R. Pennington was selected as chapter representative on the department executive committee.

Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, retired, addressed the meeting in the County Building at Bethesda, Md.

Annapolis High School Graduates Class of 115

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 16.—Annapolis High School graduated a class of 115 girls and boys at commencement ceremonies held in the auditorium of the new school building today. State Senator Ridgley P. Melvin addressed the graduates and diplomas were awarded by Frank A. Munroe, president of the Anne Arundel County Board of Education.

Public schools throughout the county closed today. Many of the schools celebrated by holding picnics.

U. S. ALLOWS WJSV TO CONTINUE ON AIR

Interference With Research Station of Navy Cleared by Directional Device.

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

WJSV, the comparatively new broadcasting station on the Mount Vernon Highway, which appeared doomed to be closed down and scrapped because of its proximity to the Naval Research Laboratory, was saved yesterday through the cooperation of the Navy Department, the Federal Radio Commission and the Columbia Broadcasting System, owners of the station.

Unquestionably officials blundered in allowing WJSV, using 10,000 watts, more than ten times the combined power of all the broadcasting stations in the District, to be located within a mile of the important naval transmitting station. A permit to locate it there was granted by the Radio Commission, which claimed it had notified the Navy Department.

However, that may be the first the Naval Research Laboratory radio experts knew about it was when they looked across the Potomac and happened to see WJSV's new wireless towers sprouting on the horizon. They declared the station would interfere with them, and it surely did.

Whereupon the death sentence was passed upon WJSV. The station represented an investment of $100,000, but the Naval Research Laboratory represented an outlay of $3,000,000. Furthermore it was engaged in important secret experiments having to do with national defense.

In a last attempt to save the station, and what seemed then to some a futile effort, Harry C. Butcher, manager of WJSV, secured permission to try out a directional antenna, one which would tend to beam the radio waves north and south instead of allowing them to spread out east and west. The research laboratory is located east of WJSV.

The device has worked so well in eliminating the interference between the two stations that yesterday the Federal Radio Commission after consulting with the Navy Department restored WJSV to its good graces by issuing the station a license to continue regularly its broadcasting. There was only one stipulation and that was that the Columbia Broadcasting System would install at the Naval Research Laboratory a device which would automatically record the WJSV signal strength to assure the Navy engineers that the directional antenna was working at all times as it should.

MORGENTHAU TO HELP IN BANKS' REOPENING

Finance Corporation for bonds of an equal amount from the first issue of $2,000,000,000 in bonds authorized by Congress in the mortgage refinancing act.

With this sum Mr. Morgenthau's aids will begin the refinancing program, which will consist principally of purchase of first mortgages held by closed banks.

A staff of from 50 to 100 appraisers will be sent over the State to valuate farms, the security for the mortgages, as the banks apply for refinancing. Cash will be paid for the mortgages to the extent of 50 per cent of the appraised "normal" value of the land and an allowance for the value of permanent improvements.

This means that if a farm is found to be worth $10,000 and a mortgage of $8,000 against it is held by a bank, Mr. Morgenthau's aids will pay up to $5,000 for the mortgage. The bank claim must be completely satisfied by this arrangement and the bank will be required to use the cash to pay off its depositors.

The farmer's debt in a case of this kind would be scaled down $3,000. He is expected to realize a reduction in interest rates in excess of 1 per cent.

The farmer after the bank has sold its mortgage will owe the principal to the Federal land banks.

He will pay interest at the rate of 4½ per cent for five years if a member of a farm loan association.

New associations will be organized as they are needed by the land banks.

If he is not a member, the rate will be 5 per cent for five years. During the five-year period he need not pay any installments on the indebtedness, which will be amortized over a period of 33 years with semi-annual payments of interest and principal.

Two Men Sentenced In Grocery Robbery

Daniel Koontz and Ralph Jarratt, both of Baltimore, were sentenced to three years in the Maryland Penitentiary yesterday by Judge Joseph C. Mattingly in Prince Georges County Circuit Court. Sentence was suspended in the case of Mrs. Katherine Koontz, wife of Daniel.

The three were arrested and charged with robbery shortly after a grocery store in Riverdale, Md., was broken into and a small safe stolen last January. They were convicted at the spring term of the court, but entered motion for a new trial. This was overruled yesterday.

Bunker Hill

Mother and Grandmother of 5 Warren Descendants Resides Here.

Mrs. Caroline Richards Newcomb, wife of Col. Warren Putnam Newcomb, who is in the Washington Sanitarium, is the mother and grandmother of the five lineal descendants of Gen. Joseph Warren, American patriot, who died at the Battle of Bunker Hill, the anniversary of which is today, it was learned yesterday.

The descendants are Mrs. George Wildrick, of 2280 California street northwest, wife of Col. George A. Wildrick, U. S. A., and their two children, Mrs. Church Matthews and Warren Newcomb Wildrick, and Mrs. Donald Armstrong, wife of Maj. Donald Armstrong, U. S. A., and their only son, Warren Putnam Armstrong.

Col. Newcomb was the great-great-grandson of Gen. Newcomb. The Copley portraits of Gen. and Mrs. Warren are loaned to the Art Museum of Boston by Col. Newcomb.

Paul Bestor, R. F. C. Aid, To Direct Insurance Loans

PAUL BESTOR.

Paul Bestor, formerly an outstanding member of the Federal Farm Loan Board and member of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, has become associated with the Prudential Insurance Co. of America, it was announced yesterday at that company's Newark headquarters.

A recognized authority on the farm loan situation, Mr. Bestor, it was declared in the announcement, will assume a supervisory capacity in that phase of the Prudential company's investment activity. He will thus take part in the executive direction of the company's Canadian and American farm loan investments, which, on June 1 last, comprised nearly 37,000 individual loans aggregating $195,000,000.

Gratification at the acquisition of Mr. Bestor as a member of the insurance organization's staff was expressed by its executives, one of them remarking:

"By both experience and training Mr. Bestor is well qualified for this important work."

Born at Clearfield, Iowa, on September 27, 1882, Mr. Bestor was graduated from Yale University in 1910. In 1915 he first became interested in farm problems, engaging in the developing and farming of lands in Pemiscot County, Mo.

In 1920, Mr. Bestor was elected to the Missouri House of Representatives serving for two years until his appointment as registrar of the Sixth Federal Land Bank District. In 1922 he became president of the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis, serving in that capacity until 1929. During this executiveship Mr. Bestor in 1923 became associated with the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank in St. Louis.

Mr. Bestor was appointed a member of the Federal Farm Loan Board on May 3, 1929, 13 days later he was designated Federal Farm Loan Commissioner. In 1931 the latter appointment was renewed. In 1932 Mr. Bestor became a member of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

On August 29, 1911 he married Miss Mary Rankin, of Tarkio, Iowa. There were four children, three of whom are living. They are Barbara Jane, Mary Lois and Paul Rankin. Their home is at 200 Raymond street, Chevy Chase, Md.

Mr. Bestor will end his tenure of office as Federal Farm Loan Commissioner on July 1. He will be succeeded by Albert S. Goss, of Seattle, Wash., who was appointed yesterday by Henry Morgenthau, jr., governor of the new Farm Credit Administration.

ADVENTIST WARNS AGAINST NEW IDEAS

Rev. F. C. Gilbert Forecasts Christ's Second Coming to Earth Soon.

Warning against "new fangled ideas creeping into the church that would disrupt the foundation stones," the Rev. F. C. Gilbert told the campers attending the campmeeting of the Potomac Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, in Takoma Park, that they should not allow fanciful teachings to shake their faith, but they should get ready to meet Christ, "for He is coming very soon."

"Some day when no one expects it, the greatest surprise of all time is coming upon the earth in the return of Christ who will shake terribly this whole globe," he continued.

Mr. Gilbert said the last of the great signs mentioned in Matthew 24, occurred just 100 years ago when the stars fell, and he declared the Bible indicates through the prophets that Christ has about finished His work of intercession in heaven, and is nearly ready to put on his garment of vengeance to destroy wicked mankind from the face of the earth.

He told the audience to watch the economic conference now in session in London, as it is likely to bring about developments that may astound the world, and offer another evidence of the insecurity of man's devisings, and the certainty of Biblical prophecies that "the end of the reign of sin is near, and hasteth greatly."

He also said that believers should not put any trust in changing customs, changing influences, or changing environments, declaring that the God who created this world is the same, yesterday and forever, and His standards are the same that the founders of Christendom accepted.

THE BEGINNING.

With every one of President Roosevelt's recovery measures enacted into law, the country awaits with intense interest the development of the gigantic administrative machinery that is to make these measures effective. Mr. Roosevelt's outline of the scope and purpose of the legislation gives a vivid idea of the novelty of his plans as well as a most optimistic forecast of results.

The President saved time by providing beforehand for the application of the laws. He selected administrators and co-ordinators, who proceeded to organize their agencies in preparation for work. Some of the plans, such as projects for public buildings, have been held in suspense for many months, awaiting legislation, and contracts calling for the employment of large numbers of men can be let immediately. Road-building operations also can begin without delay. Naval construction will be undertaken both in private and Government yards. Flood-control projects and other public works will add to the demand for workmen. Altogether, it is claimed that the public works section of the industrial recovery act will provide employment for many thousands of men.

Far more important from the employment standpoint, however, is the act relating to industrial co-operation. Many industries have perfected their codes of co-operation and are ready to proceed as soon as their plans have been approved. Private industry can give work to its tens of thousands where public works call for hundreds. If the co-operation called for by President Roosevelt is forthcoming on the part of industry it is asserted that large numbers of men will be reemployed within a reasonable time.

At one stage of industrial growth the danger of monopoly and restraint of trade called for stringent restrictive laws intended to preserve competition. Gradually conditions have changed, so that industry and the public have had more reason to fear the consequences of cut-throat competition than the evils of monopoly. The aim of the industrial recovery act is to strike a balance that will protect the people against monopoly while enabling industry to co-operate for the purpose of eliminating cut-throat competition.

The law is on the statute books. Its administration is about to begin. The outcome will be awaited with eager interest.

THE CRAWFORD CASE.

The case of George Crawford takes a new turn by the decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, sitting at Boston. Crawford was indicted in Virginia for murder, and was apprehended in Massachusetts. A requisition for his extradition was honored by the Governor of Massachusetts, but Crawford's counsel obtained a writ of habeas corpus from Federal Judge Lowell on the novel ground that since citizens of African descent are not permitted to serve on grand juries in Virginia, the court of last resort would hold Crawford's indictment to be invalid.

A vigorous protest was raised by both lawyers and laymen against Judge Lowell's virtual denial of Virginia's jurisdiction over individuals charged with crime within that State. An appeal was taken, and the appellate court now reverses Judge Lowell and directs that Crawford be surrendered to Virginia. The higher court holds that the indictment can not be voided nor the jurisdiction of the Virginia trial court defeated by a Federal court since the question of the validity of the indictment is one to be determined primarily by the Virginia courts. Crawford is entitled to set up the plea that discrimination against individuals of his race makes his indictment void, but the question must be raised, if at all, in the State in which the trial is to be conducted.

It does not appear that Crawford's constitutional rights under the fourteenth amendment will be denied, since he will have the right of appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States if the Virginia courts should sanction a rule that discriminates against a citizen because of his race or color. But it would be outrageous if a State should be denied the right to try a man for crime, on the mere assumption by a judge in another jurisdiction that the State will not deal out justice.

INVOLUNTARY RETIREMENT.

Government workers encounter a new menace to their security in the retirement provisions of the independent offices bill approved just before the adjournment of Congress. The measure itself appears to be guileless. It purports to extend a privilege to employes who are dismissed after 30 years or more of service. But the possibility that this measure might be used as a means of reducing civil service personnel makes thousands of faithful servants of the Government uneasy over their jobs.

When the plan of eliminating employes who have been in the service for 30 years or more was first submitted to Congress by the Budget Bureau it provided for compulsory retirement. Under that arrangement 22,000 Government workers would have been arbitrarily dismissed. Congress refused to sanction a measure so drastic. The original plan underwent considerable modification in both the House and Senate, but as finally approved it permits the President to withdraw much of the protection which now surrounds employes who have devoted most of their lives to Government service.

The law merely gives Federal workers who are involuntarily separated from the service after 30 years a right to retirement pay. But this opens the way for dismissals on a grand scale among employes in this class. Government workers are rated on their efficiency, length of service, dependability, marital status and military service. The President may, by executive order, eliminate length of service as a factor in employes' ratings, thereby destroying the seniority advantage they have built up over many years.

That it would be an injustice to oust middle-aged employes from their jobs because they have served 30 years is apparent to every one. Many capable specialists, administrators and division chiefs may thus be forced out through the caprice of a department head. Employes who have served the Government for long periods in a non-partisan spirit under the promise of security in their positions may suddenly be displaced for political reasons, and they would be denied any appeal to higher authority.

This prospect is extremely discouraging to men and women who plan to enter the Government service as their life's work, as well as to those whose careers may be thus terminated. The Government would be under a handicap in securing efficient and impartial service. If advantage should be taken of the opportunity Congress has given to emasculate the safeguards of the civil service, the morale of the Federal personnel will be seriously impaired.

VETERANS' BENEFITS.

Settlement of the controversy over veterans' benefits was obviously a compromise. Sentiment in Congress was not strong enough to wipe out the major savings effected by the President's orders, but some of the more controversial benefits will be restored under the final agreement. For the most part the decision as to what pensions shall be paid to veterans remains with the President.

The surprising element in the controversy was the resistance of the House to any material changes in the economy law as passed in March. As a rule the House has been more anxious to do the bidding of the veterans than has the Senate. But in this case it stood with the President to defeat the repeated assaults of the Senate upon the economy measure.

It would be interesting to explore the reasoning behind the action of the House. Of course, it was influenced by President Roosevelt's wishes. But why should the House be more amenable to the wishes of the President than is the Senate? Can it be that members of the House have been keeping their ears a little closer to the ground than have senators? There are indications that members of the House have been hearing from their constituents back home as well as from the White House. The people are in a mood to favor Governmental economy in spite of the clamor for more liberal pensions for veterans.

The important thing is, however, that veterans' allowances have been left largely in the hands of the President. The Veterans' Administration has an opportunity to carry out its retrenchment program without any severe restrictions. A test of the plan under which the Executive has control of pensions is to be made. Future attacks upon this method of handling the problem may be expected, but if the new arrangement is well conducted it will have the support of the people.

Much depends upon the manner in which the new system is administered. War-disabled veterans must be cared for. No doubt the Veterans' Administration will be careful to check and recheck the cases of veterans who were actually disabled as a result of military service. If these veterans are treated with fairness and consideration, future attempts to break down the present system of pensions will lack public support. On the other hand, any actual neglect of the men who were crippled in France would be certain to revive the controversy which Congress has laid aside.

FASCISM IN EUROPE.

The sudden and sensational accession to power of Hitler in Germany gave a great spurt to the Fascist cause in a number of European states, and just as surely the Nazi excesses which followed under the dictatorship have put a damper upon budding enthusiasm in several countries.

The National Socialist movement in Austria was spreading so rapidly that the Hitler government thought it foresaw the early consummation of its dream of a Germanic union. But the Nazis did not count upon such prompt and energetic counteraction on the part of Premier Dollfuss. He declared emphatically against an alliance which would mean the domination of Austria by Germany and the obliteration of distinctive national characteristics.

In both France and Spain the governments are strongly opposed to Fascist activities. Little headway has been made among the French. In Spain, however, there is believed to be a growing element, including many of the old titled aristocracy, who see in Fascism a necessary counterbalance to the menace of Communism. In England Sir Oswald Mosley has succeeded in building up his following until it is no longer merely a political joke, though few take seriously his claim that Great Britain will be the next nation to embrace Fascism.

Organizations spreading propaganda for the Fascist cause exist in Holland, Norway, Denmark, Sweden, Belgium, Portugal and all the Balkan States. According to their geographical and racial leanings these groups are patterned either after the aims of Mussolini or Hitler, but nowhere is there a party as yet strong enough to consider taking control.

MATTERN MISSING.

The inscrutable wastes of Bering Sea hold the secret of the fate of "Jimmy" Mattern, long overdue at Nome on his flight from Khabarovsk, Siberia. The distance is 3400 miles, which should have been covered in about 16 hours. Mattern's gas supply was sufficient for 35 hours, but he has not been heard from for more than 60 hours.

The Siberian coast, the Aleutian islands and Bering Sea are desolate and stormy stretches, with scant means of communication and few landing places. Yet the resourceful aviator can sometimes save himself in spite of conditions which force him down. Mattern is a flier whose daring and ingenuity have been demonstrated on his world flight, and the lack of news regarding him for a reasonable time does not counterbalance the fact that he is experienced and capable of extricating himself from the ordinary mishaps of flying. His pluck deserves success and commands the earnest hope that he will be saved.

Rumor of another extra session, this time in September, speeds the parting congressmen and warns them to spend their vacation making hay.

Uncle Sam will be only a partner if industry organizes itself rightly, but if it fails he will turn into a bureaucrat.

Stabilization from the European standpoint means locking the door after the gold horse has disappeared.

Among the minor items of the week is the transformation of the railroad systems of the United States.

Now for the tussle between bureaucracy and big business to see who will control industry.

MOTORISTS VICTIMIZED

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

Ambulance chasing may be a low business, but it is a high art. Car owners and operators should recognize both aspects in order to escape victimization by those who practice it.

The recent experience of a truck driver for a metropolitan daily newspaper indicates how the ambulance chaser ever is changing and polishing up his technique. Moreover, it evokes curiosity as to how many motorists would have been as canny as the truck driver in evading the neatly laid trap.

Here is the story: As the truck stopped at a red traffic signal, its driver noticed a man who suddenly appeared out of nowhere. The latter was brushing his clothes vigorously, and conspicuously. The truck driver asked him what the trouble was.

"You hit me," was the reply. "But it's no matter. I'm all right."

Protesting that he was all right, the man refused to give any more information—his name, address and the like. But the driver was not satisfied. His orders called for reports of all accidents, so he asked a policeman nearby for aid. But the victim laughed off the policeman's request as he had that of the truck driver. After he had walked away a street repairman who had seen the whole thing volunteered the information that the victim apparently had walked deliberately into the side of the truck. The truck driver took his name as a witness; also that of the policeman. The wisdom of doing so became manifest three days later when, from a hospital bed, the alleged victim began legal action against the daily newspaper which owned the truck.

Naturally, the case was stopped before a real beginning with it was made.

Quite a different result, however, might have been the fate of a driver less thorough than the one in question. The average motorist certainly would have been tempted to accept the gracious, smiling protest of the victim that "it was nothing." In fact, a majority would only have been too glad to do so as a means of saving time and trouble. Obviously, the time-saving would have been at the expense of considerable trouble in court later.

The passenger car owner, even though recognizing the moral of the story readily enough, may take refuge in the thought that ambulance chasers are more likely to pick commercial vehicles operated by firms with resources to meet damage claims. To a considerable extent, the assumption is a valid one. The ambulance chaser does select his victims with discernment, but his taste does not exclude the make of motor vehicle owners and operators. He gets them constantly.

The motorist's safeguard against being victimized is to realize that ambulance chasing has [illegible]

Adjournment sine die was the only remaining sine qua non.

Adios, Congress; watch your step and don't get your alibis mixed!

Some members depart somewhat apprehensive that they will be met by a deception committee.

Arrival at the depot early Sunday morning will enable many to reach home without observation.

The President complimented Congress for its cooperation on "the broad average"—let's forget the narrow bypaths and buy-ways.

The big stick was not much in evidence, but retreating and vanquished rebels still feel the sting of the party cat-o'-nine-tails.

Having loaded all the cares of state upon the broad and willing shoulders of the President, Congress will hibernate and recuperate until next year.

Having heard what Homer Cummings is doing, possibly John Bull was afraid to approach these shores bearing anything but silver.

"The British debt will be made with 20,000,000 ounces of silver from the Bombay mint." And Bombay duck is a fish.

How many defers does it take in French to make a default?

Uncle Sam's plea for disarmament and his fleet will both carry more weight when the Navy is built up to treaty strength.

The congressional theme song yesterday was "Two Tickets for Georgia and All States E. W. N. and S."

The inflation shots in the arm have kept the stock market humming, but the London stabilization jab in the leg made it limp.

It wasn't such an ill Nam wind after all—it blew Austria to a $40,000,000 loan.

If the highways are not too deep in milk Iowa farmers will attempt to dam the repeal tide next Tuesday.

Mr. Farley will not overlook the argument that Finland, the only nation paying its debt installment in full, repealed prohibition last year.

THE LASTING GAINS.

If life be nothing more than money getting,
Then sad, indeed, are we;
And none should blame us for our constant fretting
At money poverty.

If only riches count with us, to lose them
Is life's supremest pain,
But there are those who constantly refuse them,
Some sweeter joy to gain.

They seem to see beyond the petty penny
And deep within the clay
Splendors worth claiming and achievements many
The soul may bear away.

They deal with kindness and they build with pity,
And much joy they take,
Not from tall buildings which adorn a city,
But from friends they make.

The sky means something to them, and the beauty
Of tree and flower
Lightens the dark, drab days of dreary duty
And many an hour.

They give themselves to song and merry laughter,
High faith and things of worth,
And shape their souls to face the long hereafter
With courage on the earth.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

MY DEAR LOUISE: Like every other parent since time immemorial, I have done my utmost to teach you the need and the worth of purity.

I have assured you, and again assure you now, that men of honor and character and decency have no respect for women of little virtue. Unless they are tricked, they choose mates who have had no illicit experience of love—women they can trust and honor as they do their mothers.

And men of the other type prefer such women, also, however little they have merited such a reward.

These things I have told you often to counteract the poisonous influence of books and magazine stories and scenarios that sugar-coat vice to make it seem respectable.

But there is another side of the story.

If you make yourself the kind of girl that men prefer, you have the right to demand that men make themselves the kind you prefer.

Society always has and perhaps always will grant men privileges that it denies to women. Men are forgiven "indiscretions" that would ruin a girl beyond all hope of redemption. It isn't fair, but that's the way it is and there's nothing you can do about it.

But you can do something to safeguard yourself. You and every other decent girl can require the same degree of honor that is required of you.

To say there are no clean young men is a confession of ignorance. It is on a par with the malicious charge that chastity among women is a thing of the past. The people who say these things speak without knowledge or else they are unfortunate in their choice of acquaintances.

But continent young men are relatively few, and the percentage with no experience of disease is not large. One New York medical official asserts that 90 per cent of men under 45 are now or at some time have been diseased.

How true that is I do not know. But I do know that many men are brutal enough to marry despite disease, and their wives endure major operations or life-long agony as a result. Shame hides the truth, but it can't hide the malformed and imbecile children.

I had rather see you in your coffin, my dear, than to see you at the altar for a marriage like that.

A girl has only one safeguard. The boy who asks her to marry him should present a health certificate from her family physician and another from a reputable physician. If he doesn't offer such proof of his fitness, she should demand it before giving her answer.

It is better to risk offending a loved one than to have your own love destroyed by shame and endless suffering. Love, DAD.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Forging New Links.
Minneapolis Journal.

President Roosevelt has appointed two former United States Senators from neighbor States to important positions. Both are nominally Republicans, but both were defeated in their party primaries last year, and both supported Roosevelt in the Presidential campaign. It is hard to escape the conclusion that the appointments of Smith Wildman Brookhart and John J. Blaine are adroit moves in political strategy.

The appointments recognized a large body of Republicans of the Middle West who supported President Roosevelt in the campaign. They draw upon an element that styles itself "Progressive," and is Republican only in name. Its recent alliance with the Democracy is a loose one. The Administration has gone a long way toward meeting the demands of the Progressive group, but not all the way, and no genuine Progressive can be satisfied with anything short of his whole objective. Unless this group is bound to the President by ties of some sort, it is more than likely to desert him at the first disagreement.

Portland Oregonian.

The national committee, representing the Republican party of the several States is the proper body to plan reorganization of the party and a new definition of its principles, but the circumstances call for an expression of opinion from the rank and file of the party as a guide to the organization. Although economic depression was a powerful influence against the party in control of the government, the defeat last November was so sweeping as to indicate discontent with the party leadership on the part of those Republicans who went over to the Democratic party. The aim should now be so to apply Republican principles as to hold those who stood by the party and to win back those who deserted it.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE GARBLE SISTERS DISCUSS EVENTS OF THE HOUR.

"What's this economic conference they're holding over in the Palace of Versailles?"

"I dunno, except that it's something about getting the world to reduce battleships, get gold back on the three-point-two basis and improve general business. And it ain't being held in Versailles; it's being held in the Tower of London."

"Who's behind it?"

"Roosevelt, Walter Lippmann, Ramsay MacDonald, the Van Sweringen brothers and everybody of any prominence."

"I heard the opening speeches on the radio. Jimmy Mattern was very good."

"Yeah. He has a nice voice."

"Has the conference accomplished anything so far?"

"No; the delegates are awfully slow. They're 36 hours behind Post and Gatty's time already."

* * * *

"Those Post and Gatty boys were pretty good. I saw them tie for the National Open two years ago. And, speaking of golf, how did you like the outcome at Chicago?"

"Fine! I knew Max Baer would come through. He beat Bobby Jones at Pebble Beach in 1929 and has always been a good golfer. He had a close call at Chicago, though. What was the name of that golfer who lost to him by a putt on the last hole?"

"Pecora. Ferdinand Pecora, wasn't it?"

"That's the one."

* * * *

"What did you think of the banking investigation at Washington?"

"I thought Charlie Mitchell made a pretty good witness."

"He made a mistake, though, when he wrote that letter recommending that the Government pay $1.40 for those reforestation camp kits."

"There was nothing wrong about it. The law plainly says that a man can put his camp kits in his wife's name if he wants to."

"What do you think of the stock market? Is it an inside job or a real bull market?"

"I think it's justified. Car loadings announced by the United States Steel Corporation went up 32 per cent and the railroads produced more back logs and ingots during May than they did in any month in three years."

"Sure. And did you read the figures on the unfilled tonnage of leather, hides and textiles?"

"No; but I knew beer would make a big difference."

"Do you think we'll get repeal?"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Disabled Veteran Holds Small Government Job and Now Faces Loss of Compensation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: May I respectfully request space to refute a letter in The Post of June 8, signed "A. MacC. S.," which is apparently based upon prejudice and lack of knowledge?

Prior to the "new deal" the pension system was based upon the theory that the Government was compensating in part for earning capacity which was impaired in the service in the line of duty. If a man was obliged to hold a low-paid job because of his disability he should be compensated.

I may cite my own case. It isn't unusual, but I know it best. Prior to disability I had for twelve years held a certain job with a certain pay, and it is therefore reasonable to assume that this pay which I received was at least my earning capacity, without considering increased earning power with experience. Since disability I have drawn a pension. I tried my very best to hold any kind of a job in the commercial world, but my handicap was too great, so I came to Washington and got into the Government in a minor position, where my pay plus my pension amounted to just exactly 50 per cent of my pre-disability pay.

I am barred by disability incurred in the service in the line of duty from any other than Government employment, and in that I am held to a minor job. I think that is an [illegible] order that limit my pension on that consideration alone. WALTER [illegible]

MRS. NORMANDO A. COSTELLO, who before her marriage yesterday to Lieut. Costello, U. S. A., was Miss Frances Page Simonds, daughter of the Commandant of the War College and Mrs. George S. Simonds.

Miss Simonds Married In War College Chapel.

A wedding of wide interest in Army circles, which took place yesterday afternoon, is that of Miss Frances Page Simonds, daughter of the commandant of the Army War College and Mrs. George S. Simonds, to Lieut. Normando A. Costello, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Costello, of Franklin, Idaho.

The ceremony was performed by Chaplain Koch, U. S. A., in the chapel of the War College at 4 o'clock, in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends. The chapel was charmingly decorated with palms and white summer flowers.

The bride, who was escorted and given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white lace, fashioned on princess lines, with a long court train of the lace. Her tulle veil was caught on either side of the head with clusters of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Marjorie Simonds, sister of the bride was maid of honor, and wore a frock of pale green mousseline de soie, with a brief cape and a long full skirt. She carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

Miss Margaret McKinley and Miss Elaine Blauvelt, of Pittsburgh, Pa., were bridesmaids, and wore frocks like that of the maid of honor in pink and orchid mousseline respectively. Both carried spring flowers.

Lieut. John C. Oakes, of Fort Davis, Canal Zone, was best man, and the ushers were Lieut. John Waters and Lieut. Thomas Hammond, of Fort Meyer; Lieut. Charles Tench, of Fort Humphries, Va., and Lieut. George Riggs, of the War College.

A reception followed the ceremony at the quarters of Gen. Simonds. The Army Band played in front of the house during the reception.

Lieut. and Mrs. Costello left immediately after the reception for New York whence they will sail on Monday for Panama, to make their home at Fort Davis where the former is stationed.

Carlos Burr Dawes Weds Esther Johnson.

At a garden wedding at the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Foster Johnson, near Columbus, Ohio, on the anniversary of their wedding, the marriage of their daughter, Esther, to Mr. Carlos Burr Dawes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Beeman Dawes, of Columbus, took place at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Cyrus Huling Woodbury, of Lake George, N. Y., and Mrs. John A. McVickar, of New York City, were the only attendants for their sister.

Mr. Henry Dawes, of Washington; Mr. E. Cutler Dawes, of St. Cloud, Minn., and Mr. Gates Dawes, of Cincinnati, were ushers for their brother.

The Rev. J. Harry Cotton, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Columbus, officiated in the presence of the families and few friends.

The bride's gown was of imported ivory satin, and the brussels lace veil was worn by her sisters at their weddings. Gardenias and lillies of the valley formed the shower bouquet. The bridesmaids wore Eleanor blue and tearose silk linen with linen hats to match. They carried huge bouquets of garden flowers.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

A REAL novelty comes this afternoon in the broadcasting direct from Switzerland of the voices of the winners of the largest yodelers' contest ever held. It will come direct from the Alpine city of Interlaken, where more than 150 yodeling clubs have been participating in the preliminaries.

In addition to the winning club, Americans will hear a peasant orchestra and a yodel solo by Fraulein Gretil Wenger, who, while she performs her vocal gyrations, will also play the "hand harmonica" which consists of a series of glasses partially filled with water.

The Swiss yodelers will be heard in Washington through Station WRC at 4 o'clock.

The Old Maestro and all the Lads are mighty proud these days of Jimmy Mattern, round-the-world flyer, because Jimmy once played the drums in Bernie's band, heard regularly over networks.

Dal Calkins, pianist and arranger for the Three Scamps, heard over networks, recently inherited $4,000 from a granduncle. The manager of the Three Scamps declares that if it were any more there would be no Three Scamps and adds that Dal's granduncle sure was a grand uncle.

"H. M. S. Pinafore," the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta will be presented tonight over WMAL at 8 o'clock.

An excerpt from Bizet's opera "The Pearl Fishers" and an arrangement by Schipa of the ever-popular "Liebestraum" by Liszt will vary the program of Latin-American selections to be sung by Ortiz Tirado, Mexican tenor, during his recital over WRC at 7 p. m.

"HAS Congress adjourned?" some one asked as several persons were chatting together night before last.

"I don't know," the one addressed replied, "but I'll be glad to call up the Capitol and find out."

"Never mind," the inquirer said. "It is almost 10 o'clock. I'll tune in on the Postillion. He'll tell us all about it."

Mme. von Unschuld's Piano Club will present a program over WMAL at 7:15 o'clock.

The old WJSV will live again at 10:30 o'clock. Fans tuning in on this will hear some familiar voices.

"Our Dole-Minded Thinking" will be expostulated upon by Samuel S. Wyer, consulting engineer, of Columbus, Ohio, on the American Taxpayers League program. (WMAL, 6 p. m.)

Carveth Wells, explorer and lecturer, told Jimmy Wallington about a tribe in Africa that beats the ground with sticks when angry. "They must be golf players," was Wallington's comment.

They were talking in the studios about the earnings of opera singers. "Marion Talley made over $300,000 in two years," remarked Howard Claney. "Yes," agreed Ted Jewett, announcer; "her notes drew big interest."

Isham Jones, now on a short tour before settling down at Atlantic City for the summer, will be heard in a special broadcast from Cincinnati over WJSV at 9:30 p. m.

THERE will be a special Saturday night dancing party for the colleges and universities tonight when B. A. Rolfe's orchestra presents an hour of college songs over WRC at 9 o'clock.

Among the institutions to be included in the musical score are Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Columbia, Washington and Lee, Dartmouth, Northwestern, Indiana, Georgia, Cornell, Pennsylvania, New York University, Notre Dame, Wisconsin, Georgia Tech, Chicago, South Dakota, Ohio State, Army, University of Michigan, Southern California, Stanford, Oregon, Washington and Kansas.

Now that hay fever is here Herb Polesie, of the Musical Grocery Store, is using this toast—"Here's looking—achoo!"

Dr. Arthur H. Compton, of the University of Chicago and one of the world's outstanding authorities on cosmic rays, will explain tonight what science hopes to accomplish this summer through the first American flight into the stratosphere.

"Why Go Up Ten Miles?" will be the subject of Dr. Compton's talk, in which he will tell how the cosmic ray will be trapped and measured by special apparatus as the largest balloon ever built sails 10 or 12 miles above Chicago's lake front. He will be heard over the WJZ network at 10 p. m., but not WMAL.

"Three Maids on a Mike," is the first locally produced radio show to be fed to a Columbia network since WJSV took the air as a network station. For the past two months the harmonies of Grace, Hazel and Jane have been heard over the Dixie Network.

Continuous sounding for several hours of a steamboat whistle at the Seventh street wharves in the past several days created considerable excitement in Southwest Washington. Inquirers were told that the Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Co. were making a record of the whistles on their boats to be used over the radio.

Beginning soon the nightly steamboat announcement over WRC will be broadcast via an electrical transcription. In this way there will be an actual reproduction of the sounds of the Norfolk boat leaving Washington. The transcription was made under the direction of Lewis Edwin Ryan, head of a national advertising agency in Washington.

The transcription was made from portable, recording equipment, brought here from the West on a truck.

MAJOR events of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's track and field championships at Soldier Field, Chicago, will be described over WJSV at 8:30 p. m.

A New Yorker At Large

By MARK BARRON.

NEW YORK.—On an island so small and compact as Manhattan, the only directions in which to expand are up and down.

In the Grand Central, Pennsylvania Terminal and Times Square neighborhoods you can descend to underground shopping centers, double decked subways and subterranean tunnels for pedestrians.

Emerging to the surface you can ascend to elevated streets and railroads. They are time-savers. For instance, motorists leaving New York save more than an hour's time by swooping through the Holland Tunnel under the Hudson River and then overhead on that new ramp which doesn't descend to the surface highway again until you are the other side of Newark.

Summering in the City.

During an effervescent interlude several years ago, Jimmie Walker spoke of New York as "the greatest summer resort in the world." Considering that the mercury can climb fairly high there, that may have seemed then an overly enthusiastic observation.

Yet, since a dwindling of incomes, New Yorkers are discovering more and more that they can do about as well here as going away to a resort. Central Park and other urban bosky dells are enjoying a popularity this summer they haven't had in years.

Where your New Yorker really goes to avoid the heat is the roof tops of tall apartment buildings. A high view in most any part of Manhattan will look out upon a maze of these skylight beaches.

Roofs are covered with gaily colored beach chairs, where sun baths are as effective as on a beach. Other roofs, and especially those penthouse and terrace apartments, are transformed into small gardens, tennis and handball courts and even portable swimming pools.

Old Fads Come Back.

The passing show of Broadway and Park avenue merges on the Mall in Central Park, where the habitues of those orchid and ermine lanes perform and tumble on roller skates and bicycles.

Hope Williams, who is a royal member of both streets, was the one, I think, who started the fad. As long as two summers ago she used to organize skating parties on the Mall.

Archery, too, is coming in as a favorite diversion of these famous folk. The other afternoon at the Lido Country Club the beach ranges were crowded with celebrities flipping arrows through the air, and among those most artful were the Duchess Armond de Richelieu and the Baroness von Lowenfeld.

Submarines Reach Bermuda.

Hamilton, Bermuda, June 16 (A.P.).—Five U. S. Navy submarines and the rescue ship Falcon arrived in Hamilton Harbor late yesterday. They will remain until tomorrow afternoon. Elaborate entertainments have been arranged by the Hamilton Corporation and the British services. The submarines are the R-6, R-10, R-11, R-13 and R-14.

Alimony Denied Mrs. M. G. Dodge.

Reno, Nev., June 16 (A.P.).—A suit by Mrs. Margaret Graham Dodge to collect $1,200 back alimony was dismissed in District Court today when it was shown that an agreement signed last May had exempted her former husband, Robert Squire Dodge, wealthy New York broker, from making the payments. The Dodges were divorced here in 1931.

BANKS PLAN TO OBEY NEW LAW'S ORDERS

Wall Street Now Studying Glass Steagall Act to Guide Action.

New York, June 16 (A.P.)—Drastic changes in banking practices will be put into effect soon as a result of enactment of the Glass-Steagall Banking Bill, it was indicated here by a survey of financial opinion.

The signing of the measure today by President Roosevelt, found the legal departments of Wall Street banking institutions busily engaged in a close study of the measure.

Private bankers here have not yet decided what they plan to do on the choice which the bill gives them between giving up the deposit banking business or the security business.

Morgan Studies Law

At the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., it was explained that this point would be decided only after long and careful study. Kuhn, Loeb & Co., has reached no decision on the matter, it was said.

Some of the other important private bankers, including Lehman Bros., Dillon, Read & Co., and Goldman, Sachs & Co., felt they would be unaffected by this feature of the bill, because they have virtually no deposit business.

Another section of the bill requires National banks to divorce their security affiliates within a year. The most important security affiliates still in existence are those of the National City Bank, The Guaranty Trust Co., and the First National Bank.

Preliminary Steps Taken.

The National City has already taken preliminary steps to eliminate its security business—conducted through the National City Co.—but the Guaranty Trust Co. and the First National Bank have not yet made an announcement on the matter.

Officials of both of these institutions, however, have been studying the situation for some time, and an early statement is expected.

The First Security Co., security affiliate of the First National Bank, has never had a retail distributing organization and its problem is different from that of the Guaranty Trust Co., whose affiliate, the Guaranty Co., has maintained retail distributing units throughout the country for many years.

Divorcement of Affiliate.

Complete divorcement of the Chase National Bank's affiliate, the Chase Securities Co.—which in turn controlled the Chase Harris Forbes Corporation—has already reached the final stage with the recent assent of the bank's stockholders to a plan of liquidation.

All the other large New York institutions previously disposed of their security affiliates.

Litigation by banks and their stockholders to test the constitutionality of the new law is considered as possible here. Law firms which have had experience in this field are already studying the situation, it is understood, with particular reference to the controversial and bitterly contested deposit insurance feature.

Pennsylvania Line Wins Stocks Holding Decision

Philadelphia, June 16 (A.P.).—Overruling the Interstate Commerce Commission, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today gave the Pennsylvania Co. and the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. the right to retain their holdings of $67,590,000 in Wabash Railway stock, and $18,251,850 of Lehigh Valley Railroad stock.

These amounts represent $100 par value of $12,000 shares of Wabash preferred A stock and 362,900 shares of its common, and 365,039 shares of Lehigh Valley preferred at $50 par, which the Pennsylvania Co. acquired in 1927 and 1928.

Rayon Industries Buys Lamberts Point Plant

Norfolk, Va., June 16 (A.P.).—Purchase of the controlling interest in Norfolk Weavers, Inc., operating a silk rayon plant at Lamberts Point, by Rayon Industries, Inc., a national manufacturing corporation, was announced today.

The sale of control of the plant was made by a Norfolk group that had taken over its operations a year or more ago in order to keep production going and give employment to workers. It now has more than 300 men and women on the pay roll, operating in two shifts.

Appalachian Gas Assets Ordered Sold in Bulk

Wilmington, Del., June 16 (A.P.).—Chancellor J. O. Wolcott today ordered all assets of the Appalachian Gas Corporation to be sold in bulk for not less than $825,000. He set the sale for July 17.

The order states that the proposed reorganization plan of the corporation is fair and that the interests of all creditors and stockholders will best be served by a prompt sale. The order bars further objections to the plan.

Textiles, Inc., Is Placed in Receivership in South

Gastonia, N. C., June 16 (A.P.).—Textiles, Inc., $9,000,000 corporation operating 15 textile mills, was placed in receivership today on order of Federal Judge E. Y. Webb. The concern has its headquarters here.

Albert G. Myers, president of Textiles, Inc., and R. Grady Rankin, an official of the firm, both of Gastonia, were appointed operating receivers.

Unsound Writing Down Assets Is Hit

New York, June 16 (A.P.).—In furtherance of its campaign for accounting practices which may be understood by stockholders, the New York Stock Exchange has taken steps to prevent "unsound" writing down of assets by companies whose shares are listed on the exchange, it was disclosed today.

Corporations which would increase capital surpluses through a change in the par value of their stocks are now required to state whether they have any intention of charging off assets against these surpluses.

In compliance with this new stand the Park & Tilford Co., International Hydroelectric System and Kresge Department Stores, in applications for listing which were approved stated that they had no intention of writing down the value of capital assets.

Wall St. Briefs

National Lead Co.'s current sales are running 50 per cent above the average of the first quarter, Edward J. Cornish, chairman of the board, reported today. He added that sales for the first three months were the poorest for many years.

New State and municipal financing scheduled for next week totals $6,864,592 compared with $32,878,353 during the past week, the Daily Bond Buyer reports.

A New York curb exchange seat sold today at $50,000, unchanged from the previous sale.

Pennsylvania Railroad's June earnings will put the road "in the black" for the first six months of this year, says W. W. Atterbury, president. Traffic improvement has been most noticeable in freight.

FALSECARDING.

FALSECARDING is not very much of an art, but it is an art that every player should practice sometimes. Otherwise he will gain the reputation of being absolutely wooden. If the opponents can believe every one of his plays their line of attack is frequently made much easier for them.

In the following hand the West Player was noted chiefly for the fact that every card he played was honest, and consequently when the critical moment in the hand occurred the Declarer was not in very much doubt as to his proper play.

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

South	West	North	East
1◇	Pass	1NT(1)	Pass(2)
2♡(3)	Pass	3♡(4)	4♣(5)
4♡(6)	5♣	5♡	Pass
6♡(7)	Pass	Pass	Dbl.(8)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—North belongs to a school of players who believe that a notrump response is weaker than a suit response, holding that the latter should not be made without at least 1½ honor-tricks. Incidentally this theory is held by only a very few players, and these not soundly grounded in the theory of systematic bidding. Obviously one heart is the correct bid.

2—Hoping that the hand will eventually be played at notrump.

3—A slight underbid, but after all a reversal of suits is in itself a sign of strength. South does not hold quite enough to justify a Force.

4—An underbid. Four hearts is the proper response.

5—East decides to enter the bidding since it is now fairly clear that the eventual contract will be in a suit.

6—South might make a Forcing Pass at this point, but he knows the caliber of the East player and feels that no large penalty can possibly be obtained.

7—South finally comes to the conclusion that his partner holds at least 5 trumps. It seems as though there is almost certainly some play for the Slam.

8—Somewhat inexplicable, but East feels that he must try to mislead the Declarer as to the location of the heart honor, if any.

The West player, for reasons best known to himself, decided to open a club. Obviously, the King of diamonds would have defeated the contract immediately, but the club Opening gave the Declarer a chance. He ruffed the Queen in his own hand and immediately laid down the Ace of trumps. When East failed to follow suit he felt a slight shock, but the spades still offered an avenue of escape. The Queen and King were played from the Dummy and West played on them his 9 and Knave. If made by any one addicted to falsecarding these plays would mean nothing, but this particular West opponent had never been known to falsecard in his life. South therefore did not have to stretch his imagination to any great extent to find the proper play. He led the last spade from Dummy and finessed the 8-spot. West, of course, ruffed and he was unable thereafter to obtain any more tricks.

The Meanderer

Finds Plenty of Berries and Other Fruits on Market; Picnic Dishes; Rare Foods and Drinks.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Choice of berries for week-end menus may be made from strawberries, blackberries, black raspberries, red raspberries and huckleberries. Strawberries are beginning to be scarce on the local market, as this year's crop is nearly exhausted. Blackberries and raspberries are approaching the height of their season, with nearby crops entering the Washington food centers. Huckleberries are coming from North Carolina.

Sour cherries from nearby fruit farms are beginning to arrive in the Capital. In about two weeks, a fruit wholesaler told the Meanderer, there should be an abundance of sour cherries for canning. Immense sweet bing cherries—known as "ning-in-a-row," meaning that their extraordinarily large size prevents packing more than nine in a row in the small wooden boxes in which they are shipped from California. Such cherries, selling for about 25 cents a pound, are especially appropriate for uses to which maraschino cherries are usually put. A "nine-in-a-row" cherry is imposing when used to touch up a cocktail, for instance, or top off a dessert.

Peaches from Georgia and the Carolina are inexpensive considering their early arrival, but are more than a trifle hard and sour and not especially tempting to shoppers.

Smoked salmon sliced thin, served with a slice of tomato on crackers or toast is a delightful appetizer for summer, or for any other time of year, a marketer in a Kosher shop told the Meanderer. Smoked salmon, known as lax in Kosher food lists, comes usually from Scandinavian countries, though the supply in this particular shop came from Labrador.

Honey cake, or likach, for serving with wines and summer drinks, is a dark spiced loaf, honey-sweetened, and is another of the unusual foods the Kosher shop recommends.

Tamarindo and Orzaka are names of Italian soft drinks little known to Americans. Cold water is added to the Italian liquids, which are sweet and flavored. The Meanderer found them in a stand in a downtown market selling Italian imported foods.

Russian caviar in 1-ounce tins for 25 cents is worthy of notice, as is red caviar in 10-cent tins. Such values are found in the Kosher shop the Meanderer mentions above. Shoppers there may like to become acquainted with a young Jew selling the foods who has been in America only seven years, coming to this country from Russia. He has been graduated from the local business high school, has won a scholarship at George Washington University. He speaks French, German, Italian and of course his native Russian.

The best celery now on the Washington market is coming from New Jersey. The high quality of this celery is welcomed by marketers and consumers, as for weeks only inferior celery has been obtainable.

Bacon cured in special Virginia style, which used to sell for 60 cents a pound, sells now for 35 cents a pound in one of the leading meat markets of Washington. At the same market is found a sandwich paste made from Virginia ham, a good value at 30 cents a jar.

Four dozen molasses cookies, crisp and sugary, are in a package a chain store is selling for 18 cents.

Picknickers should not buy packages of paper plates, cups, &c., in 5 or 10 cent packages, for a picnic ensemble of plates, cups, salad dishes, butter trays, dessert cups, spoons and napkins and tablecloth sufficient for six persons costs only 19 cents in a chain store.

"Sugar corn is how much?" is a question an honest marketer answered this way: "There isn't any sugar corn. The corn you see is tender field corn. It sells for 5 cents an ear."

Spotted Fever Strikes Two Washington Men

The suspected case of spotted fever reported to the District Health Department yesterday has been diagnosed definitely, the Health Department was informed. The case is that of William Johnson, 57 years old, of 1328 Tenth street northwest.

Both this case and that of Samuel T. Carpenter, of 312 Rhode Island avenue northeast, are comparatively mild, however, according to Dr. James G. Cumming, contagious disease officer.

WHAT'S GOOD TO EAT

STRING BEANS ARE POPULAR FROM EVERY POINT OF VIEW

By ANN BARRETT

PUT string beans through their paces and they rate 100 on every point. Inexpensive. Quick and easy to cook. Keep good company with any meat or fish. May be served many ways. And my, how popular!

Authoress Faith Baldwin dotes on them country-style, simmered in rich milk. Screen actor Ricardo Cortez takes seconds on them when they're seasoned with browned butter and a hint of onion. Radio tenor Lanny Ross says there's no more satisfactory sight on earth than a big bowl of buttered string beans right up next a big roast of beef waiting to be eaten by a friendly gathering of ten or more.

One String Attached.

So—let's go! No strings attached to 1933 string beans except this: Don't cook them a mite past the time they're tender, if you want them fresh tasting. (Cook them whole, broken into inch-lengths, cut crosswise, diagonally, or lengthwise, in just enough boiling water to cover.) After draining them, add butter, milk or cream with salt and pepper to taste and a grating of onion if you like. If you use butter for seasoning, seems to me it does flavor the beans just twice as well if you brown it a little (not burn, mind you) first. But the kind of seasoning you use is not half so important as letting the beans stand in this seasoning on back of stove, till they are thoroughly flavored.

Hashed Brown String Beans.

I'm sure you must know dozens of string bean dishes, but perhaps you haven't tried hashed brown beans yet. You should. They make one of the slickest lunch or supper dishes I know.

First cook 1 pound (cut) string beans. Then cook ½ pound sliced mushrooms in 6 tablespoon butter. Next, add string beans (drained thoroughly) to mushrooms in frying pan. Add 2 cups sliced cooked potato, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper. Mix thoroughly, flatten down into a cake and brown on both sides.

String Beans au Gratin.

Or—if you've a feeling for cheese and mustard—string beans au gratin is your number. Here's how: Mix 3 cups cooked string beans with 1 cup medium-thick cream sauce, ¼ teaspoon prepared mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Turn into baking dish and top with ½ cup grated or ground American or Parmesan cheese. Put into 450 oven for cheese to melt and brown.

String Beans With Ham.

A delicious, old-fashioned country dish that's timely right now goes like this: Put an end of ham (about 4 pounds) into boiling water to half cover (after soaking, if too salty). Simmer gently till ham is nearly done (about 2½ hours). Then remove skin and put ham back to finish cooking. Add 2 pounds string beans (washed and cut) and 2 pounds small new potatoes (scraped). Cook till vegetables are tender. This is a meal!

Send for Steak Recipes.

String beans being one of the most popular green vegetables to serve with steak, perhaps you'd like to have our new recipe bulletin, "Steaks and Steak Dinners." It tells not only how to cook many kinds of steak to perfection (including the less expensive cuts), but also how to cook 21 dishes to serve with them: French fries, French-fried onions, mushrooms, fried bananas. Steak being one way to a man's heart (they say!) this may turn out to be a pretty valuable bulletin.

Stocks Resume Advances In Cross-Currents Battle

New York, June 16 (A.P.).—The stock market was crowded with cross current today and price movements were correspondingly erratic, but its ability to advance at times contrasted with Thursday's heavy sag. One of these rallies occurred in the last half-hour and the closing average was slightly higher.

Wall street learned over night that the Treasury had denied London's rumors of dollar stabilization around 4.68; also, Congress finally adjourned. These two items of news could hardly be ignored by bullishly inclined traders and the market advanced with some zest in the early trading.

However, gains of 1 to 3 points were more than lost before noon and prices thereafter backed and filled until the later dealings, when the trend again swung upward. Net changes, as a rule, were small. Turnover reached 5,728,256 shares.

United States Steel Gains.

United States Steel, Bethlehem, Allied Chemical, Chrysler, Mnotgomery Ward, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Woolworth, Du Pont and Consolidated Gas were up major fractions to a point at the finish. Case and Union Pacific bogged down a bit; net changes in most rails were meager. American Telephone came back about 3 points and Homestake bobbed up 8, but these gains were exceptional.

The dollar resumed its fall, which was accepted as a natural reaction to the subsidence of recent reports as to a definite stabilization level.

Loadings Gain Seen.

Sandwiched between markets' confusion over current uncertainties is a generous layer of business improvement. Tomorrow's freight loadings statement, on the basis of reports already at hand, should show a liberal rise over last year, amounting, perhaps, to 50,000 cars.

The trade revival so far has offered little or no evidence of seasonal abatement, which makes it apparent Dun & Bradstreet that inflationary measures can hardly be the sole impetus.

Forward orders of mills are gaining in volume, thus adding to employment and buying power, and operating schedules are widening as manufacturers look toward fall. Several industries have topped 1932 levels and are reached for 1931 records. Some, indeed, have passed their marks for the time two years ago, one of these being the steel trade.

Stocks.

Cross currents in the market failed to hold trading down and prices mounted six-tenths of a point. A late rally decided the victory. Sales volume increased to 5,728,256 shares.

Bonds.

Weakness of secondary rails led loans downward until all categories drifted to lower levels. The average loss was six-tenths of a point. Sales slackened to $12,517,000.

Curb.

Prices climbed again after an erratic session. The sell-off was halted. Sales volume increased to 910,000 shares.

Wheat.

Nervousness over process taxes plans and acreage reduction caused the continued selling of wheat and consequent loss in prices. Other grains and provisions joined the decline. July wheat sold at 73¾ cents.

Cotton.

Renewed buying and covering sent cotton up 19 to 28 points. July sold at 9.12; October, 9.35. Offerings were comparatively light.

BONDS DRIFT LOWER UNDER RAIL'S LEAD

New York, June 16 (A.P.).—Renewed weakness of secondary rail loans, reflecting the extremely nervous condition of stocks, unsettled the bond market today and prices in all categories drifted to lower levels.

As in the previous session, the trading volume contracted on the decline. Sales totaled only $12,517,000, par value, against $14,467,000 yesterday. The average for 60 domestic corporate issues lost six-tenths of a point.

Most foreign obligations were reactionary. Some of the South Americans were especially heavy, issues of Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Columbia losing 1 to around 4 points. Bonds of Germany and Japan sagged 1 to 2, but French 7½s gained 1¼ points.

(Associated Press.)

The Nation's railroads were estimated yesterday to be worth, at going prices, approximately $21,241,711,081.

This figure was computed from figures issued by the Valuation Bureau of the Interstate Commerce Commission on which the commission is expected to base its decision in the rate study it now has under way.

The commission is considering the question of whether freight rates shall be reduced throughout the country.

On their books as of December 31, 1932, the railroads carried a total valuation of $26,091,310,739. This figure is slightly less than the original cost of building the roads, including purchase of land and working capital as estimated by the commission. This figure was $26,232,019,220.

The value of the carriers was computed on the following basis: Spot prices (current prices of materials) gave a figure of $16,856,547,204 for cost of reproduction, less depreciation. To this figure was added $3,032,799,826 cost of land, $338,854,000 for working capital and 5 per cent as a going value, bringing the total to $21,241,711,081.

CURB PRICES HIGHER AFTER ERRATIC DAY

New York, June 16 (A.P.).—The curb market was erratic today with alternate rallies and reactions. It looked for a time as though yesterday's sell-off would be extended, but the list turned upward at the close to reduce numerous losses and establish net advances of fractions to 2 points in many of the leaders.

Oils followed closely on the heels of the general market. Humble recovered a 3-point loss, but Gulf lost a point.

TRADE TRENDS.

(Associated Press.)

Cotton Goods—"Were it not for uniform reduction in mill operating schedules which will be invoked under the National Recovery Act," says the current letter of Schauer & Co., cloth brokers, "the cloth situation could easily become top-heavy. When practically all weaving machinery in the country operates on maximum production, as it is now doing, it does not take many months to create a substantial inventory back-log."

Gasoline—General advances are being posted by distributors in consequence of the additional ½-cent a gallon Federal tax.

Copper—Buying is slow in both domestic and export markets, according to trade interests. Producers here are holding firmly at 8 cents a pound, but business is restricted by the ability of buyers to obtain metal from second hands at 7¾ cents.

Electrical appliances—Retail sources report that sales of household electrical appliances are increasing with refrigerator sales in the last three months showing the greatest gains.

WHEAT VALUES DROP UNDER HEAVY SALES

Process Taxes and Acreage Problem Cause Loss; Provisions Down.

Chicago, June 16 (A.P.).—Nervousness over Secretary Wallace's plans for quick maximum process taxes and acreage reduction led to heavy selling and lower prices in the wheat market today.

Wheat values plunged downward at one time to more than 5 cents under the top figures of Tuesday, when the season's highest level was attained. Weakness of the wheat market was in the face of reported severe crop damage in South Dakota and unfavorable crop advices also from North Dakota and Montana.

The close for wheat was unsteady, ⅝ to 1¼ under yesterday's finish; corn, ⅞ to 1⅛ down; oats ½ to ⅝ off, and provisions showing 10 to 15 cents decline.

Declines Begin Early.

New downturns in grain prices began early, following announcement that President Roosevelt had approved putting the plan into commercial channels, and have a tendency to force prices down to an export basis.

Partial rallies which subsequently took place in wheat prices were attributed to assertions in various quarters that the President's approval of putting the process tax plan into operation was constructive because his approval removed uncertainty which had existed based on suggested differences of opinion inside of the administration.

Stop-loss orders from numerous wheat holders were forced into execution by today's sharp price setback. Houses with Eastern connections were prominent on the selling side of the market, and at times the unsettlement of securities had a notable bearish effect on wheat. Much of the earlier losses of wheat values, however, was overcome before the day ended, and the rank and file of traders were giving more attention to crop news, which was generally accepted as the most unfavorable of the season from the Northwest.

Provisions responded to grain weakness and to an increase of more than 18,000,000 pounds in Chicago stocks of lard.

COTTON PRICES RISE ON RENEWED BUYING

July Sells at 9.13 With General Market Up 19 to 28 Points.

New York, June 16 (A.P.)—Cotton gained more than $1 a bale today in a session of irregular price swings. The general market closed steady at net advances of 19 to 28 points.

Initial prices were 12 to 19 points higher on covering and commission house buying promoted by relatively firm Liverpool cables.

July sold up 9.13 and December to [illegible] making new highs for the day on the late trading and closing quotations were within a point or two of the best.

BREWING COMPANY DECLARES DIVIDEND

Chicago, June 16 (A.P.) — The Prima Brewing Co., today declared an initial dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock payable July 1 to stockholders of June 16. Directors also declared the dividends on the preferred stock, 87½ cents a share, payable July 1, for both the first and second quarters of 1933.

Officials of the company said it was the first time since 3.2 beer became legal that a brewing concern had declared a dividend. They also said that the dividends were declared at this time because the company had already earned them.

New York, June 16 (A.P.)—The International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., reported today for the quarter ended March 31 a consolidated net loss of $854,215 compared with a loss of $2,555,011 in the preceding quarter and net income of $589,186 in the corresponding period of 1932.

The company reported that gross revenues, particularly in the telegraph and cable business, have shown an upward trend during recent weeks. A further factor favorable to the company, asserted the report, is the recent strengthening of foreign exchanges in terms of U. S. dollars.

The company's subsidiary, Postal Telegraph & Cable Corp., had a net loss for the March quarter of $766,832 against a loss of $1,120,859 in the previous quarter and loss of $196,432 for the like 1932 period.

MODIFIED FINANCIAL SYSTEM ADVOCATED

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Declaring that the growing disparity between the very rich and the very poor had brought the Nation to the point where it must concentrate more on the "distribution of wealth" rather than on the production of wealth," Gov. Theodore Francis Green of Rhode Island told a Morris Plan bankers convention at Rye, N. Y., this week that the capitalistic system must be modified rather than restored and retained unchanged.

Speaking before a joint meeting of New England and Atlantic States Morris Plan Associations, Gov. Green declared his support of the administration's inflationary efforts, but added the caution that "inflation is like 'free wheeling'; it must be kept under control at all times or a disastrous smashup is likely to result."

The net result of successful inflation activities would be "more turnover of the idle dollar, and the idle dollar is the snag which has caused so much concern for all of us," he said. He foresaw an immediate rise in banking loans for constructive financing, and paid tribute to Morris Plan bankers for their record of safety to depositors and their record of service to borrowers, stating that 8,000,000 persons had obtained more than $2,000,000,000 in banking loans from these institutions, while at the same time hundreds of millions of public funds had been successfully safeguarded.

The board of directors of Terminal Refrigerating & Warehousing Corporation has declared the regular semiannual dividend of $1.50 per share on the total outstanding stock of the corporation as at the close of business June 14, payable June 30. The stock books of the company will be closed as at the close of business June 14 and reopened as at the beginning of business July 1.

NATS, NEARING YANKS, OPEN IN ST. LOUIS TODAY

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 16.—"This," said young Joe Cronin, stroking an ample and protruding chin that gives this Nats' boy manager his fighting countenance, "is a five-team pennant race. I'm not kidding myself about that. We haven't got the Yankees to beat. We've got to beat the A's, the White Sox and the Indians as well."

But you're in a good spot, Joe, second place, only a game and a half behind the lead.

"Yes, we're in a good spot, but as far as second place being the strategical position is concerned, that's the bunk. You don't see McCarthy throwing away the Yankees' lead just so he'll be back in second place in what they call the strategical position, do you? They all want the lead and they all want to hold it. A second-place team never got into the world series."

But the Yankees are the toughest team in the league, Joe, the team you've got to beat out.

"Yes and no. They're tough all right, but anything can happen to the Yanks. There are three other teams in this league that're going to give everybody trouble. We gotta beat them, too."

You mean the A's and the Indians and the White Sox?

"You bet that's what I mean. Wait until Earnshaw rounds into shape. Then you've gotta keep an eye on these A's. Connie has picked up a star in that Higgins at third base and there's nothing the matter with the rest of his team. There ain't any base hits getting away from that outfield of his either.

How about the White Sox and Cleveland?

"Those White Sox are a different team this year. Al Simmons has got the whole gang of 'em hitting and any club with a Simmons is dangerous. They got Whitlow Wyatt from the Tigers and he's a great help to that pitching staff. Don't forget, they've got Sam Jones and Mills Gaston and Ted Lyons, too. Not much of a weakness there."

Cleveland is in the second division, Joe.

"I know it, I know, too, that they're only 3½ games behind us. That ain't much. Look how quick the Yankees lost their big lead. Walter Johnson's got the best pitching in the league out there in Cleveland. They'll beat most any club, Hildebrand, Harder, Hudlin and Wes Ferrell. Day in and day out they're gonna get the best pitching of any club.

RUNS, HITS AND ERRORS.

Al Crowder was cursing his luck tonight...A cross-eyed porter carried his bags out of the station and if there is one earthly spectacle that a big league pitcher doesn't want to encounter it is a cross-eyed human...especially a cross-eyed porter...It's just another synonym for bad luck...the gayest guy around the Nats' hotel is Goose Goslin...Goose is hitting and all's well with the world as far as he's concerned...twelve hits out of his last 14 times at bat, the Goose had made...including seven doubles and two homers...and just to keep in practice he hit three successive pitches over the fence in the batting drill at Indianapolis yesterday ...this is the year of the big batting "busts" in the American League, to wit: Dale Alexander, hitting .362 (led the league with .367 in 1932)...Irving Burns, of the Browns, hitting .212 (was batting .308 last year)...Joe Vosmik, Indians, .239 (75 points off)...Rick Ferrell, Red Sox, .262 (.305 last year)...Mickey Cochran, .264 (was always a .300 hitter)...It looks like a pitchers' year.

M. A. Battles To Pitt and Fitzgerald

Manor Star Defeats Shorey, Carroll; Faces Caldwell.

Kenwood Ace Downs Mallonee, Overton; Meets Crook.

By DAVE HERMAN
(Post Staff Correspondent).

ROLLING ROAD GOLF COURSE, Catonsville, Md., June 16.—Harry Pitt, of Manor, and Maury Fitzgerald, of Kenwood, fought their way into the semifinals of the Middle Atlantic golf championship today over the gruelling Rolling Road course, and will carry the District's hopes into the final day's battle tomorrow.

Pitt, champion in 1928, galloped through his first and second round matches with comparative ease, conquering a fellow-townsman, John Shorey, of Kenwood, in the morning by 4 and 3, and later crushing Charlie Carroll, of Rolling Road, in the afternoon under an avalanche of pars and birdies, 9 and 7.

The deep-chested Fitzgerald provided the day's sensation and richly earned the title of "dark horse" with his smashing triumphs over George P. Mallonee, home club ace, by 1 up on the twentieth hole, and Spencer Overton, beapectacled Hillendale star, by the same margin on the eighteenth hole.

Fitzgerald to Meet Dave Crook.

In tomorrow morning's matches, Fitzgerald will be pitted against Dave Crook, former Rolling Road champion, at 9:48, while in the lower bracket, Pitt will oppose the defending titleholder, Ernie Caldwell, of Hillendale.

Crook upset the title aspirations of 15-year-old Jack White, winner of medal honors with his 73, by 2 and 1, after taking six consecutive holes. In the afternoon Dave Crook forgot all about "brotherly love" by eliminating his brother, Howard, by the same count.

The elongated Caldwell, who with Pitt, trailed the kid star, White, by one stroke in the qualifying round, shot a subpar 34 at Harris Jones, of the Baltimore Country Club, in his first match, to triumph 4 and 3, and followed with a 2 and 1 victory over Tom Belshe, of Indian Spring, who had put out B. Warren Corkran, 2 and 1, in one of the day's big upsets.

All-District Final Looming.

It was Fitzgerald who stole the show and who won a host of backers from Baltimore by his gritty play in both matches. He goes into tomorrow's battle with a splendid chance of winning. With Pitt ranked the favorite to defeat Caldwell, the prospect of an all-District final is bright.

Fitzgerald figured in the two tightest matches of the championship flight and in each match he had to fight back with defeat staring him in the face.

Pitt had a walkaway in beating Carroll. He didn't yield a hole, and shot birdies on the tenth, eleventh and twelfth, to end the match in 2 under par—a blast that was equaled only by Overton.

Belshe, in defeating Corkran, fought an uphill battle after losing the first three holes. He climaxed the

YALE'S CREW BEATEN BY HARVARD

Crimsons Come From Behind to Lead by Length and Half.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 16 (A. P.).—Propelled by the slashing thrusts of a black-haired young power house who has never known what it meant to trail a Yale crew, Harvard's great varsity crew came from behind with a spectacular finish this evening to whip the Elis soundly for the third successive year in a rough weather battle over the historic 4-mile Thames River course.

The greatest Crimson boatload since before the war spotted Yale a full length in the early half of the long pull through choppy seas and then came roaring down through a bedlam of screeching noise and cheers to lead the Blue under the railroad bridge by a good length and a half.

Yale set the pace, fighting every foot of the route until nearly a half mile from the finish. The Elis gave a magnificent exhibition of oarsmanship and courage. For most of the exhausting pull they matched everything that Harvard's swingers could muster.

Crimsons Well-Nigh Invincible.

But when it came to the final punishing drive, the Elis did not have the stamina, weight and experience to match the last rush of a well nigh invincible 4-mile Crimson crew.

Over the heart-crushing last half-mile, under leaden skies that turned the usually colorful spectacle into a drab, murky setting, the Elis could not stand the killing pace with which Gerald J. Cassedy, Harvard's famous stroke oar, drove his crew mates and his slim shell to convincing triumph. As heroically, as Yale's pacesetter, Bill Graney, of Greeley, Colo., sustained his drive for almost the full distance. He was unequal to the task of matching strength with the black-haired youth who ranks with the most rugged and indomitable oarsmen Harvard has ever produced.

The official times for the 4 miles, downstream, through choppy waters and against a brisk head wind, were Harvard, 22 minutes 46 3-5 seconds; Yale, 22 minutes 53 4-5 seconds.

"It was a big day for Harvard, altogether. The Crimson junior varsity, close to being a copy of the big eight in size and strength, also closed with a rush to score a scant half length victory over the Eli "Jayvees" in the morning. It wasn't until the last 200 yards that this Harvard eight looked its rivals squarely in the eye and then pulled away from them, winning by a narrow margin of 1 2-5 seconds. The corrected official times for this race were 11:46 1-5 for Harvard and 11:49 4-5 for Yale.

Yale's undefeated freshmen raced to an easy victory in the first of the two morning races. They pulled across the finish five lengths ahead of Harvard's yearlings.

COLONIALS DISBAND.

The Colonials have disbanded for the season and given up their franchise in the Capital City League. Ed Morris, coach and manager of the team, pointed out that only four George Washington University players were available for the remainder of the season and he did not feel justified in continuing in the race.

Trojans Lead Qualifiers In Chicago

Ward, Michigan Star, Fails to Place in Hurdles, Dashes.

By CHARLES DUNKLEY.

CHICAGO, June 16 (A.P.).—A blistering battle between the University of Southern California, winner of the I. C. 4-A meet two weeks ago, and Indiana, upholding the honors of the Middle West, shaped up for the finals of the national collegiate track and field championships to be decided under the flood lights at Soldier Field tomorrow night.

The Trojans, as a result of trials today, placed ten men in the finals to lead the qualifiers, while Indiana placed six, and Michigan and Louisiana State seven each. The Wolverines, outdoor champions of the Western Conference, might have figured in the finals, but their strength was broken by the failure of Willis Ward, Negro star, who scored 18 points in the Big Ten meet, to place in the hurdles and dashes.

Stanford Suffers Loss In Events.

Stanford, defeated by Southern California in the Eastern intercollegiate two weeks ago by only 5 points, failed to get help from all its weight stars, Gray, Dunn, Lyman, who did not compete, leaving Henri la Borde as its sole entrant in the shot and discus, so that Indiana, defending N. C. A. A. champion, looms up as the only bar to the Trojans' fourth national championship.

Misfortune befell Jack Keller, of Ohio State, national collegiate hurdling champion, who was to make his farewell in college competition tomorrow night. The blonde Buckeye, shaken up in an automobile accident before the meet, fell on the seventh hurdle of the qualifying heat and then plunged headforemost into the eighth barrier. When he dragged himself off the cinders there were ugly gashes in both knees.

Finishes Fourth, Fails To Qualify.

Although Keller came back with his knees bandaged for the low hurdles, the handicap was too great to overcome, and he finished fourth, failing to qualify.

Ralph Metcalfe, of Marquette, National collegiate sprint champion, figures to have no more than a gallop in winning the 100-yard dash

Columbus-Rochester Deal Affects 8 Men

Columbus, Ohio, June 16 (A.P.).—A swap he hopes will keep the Columbus Red Birds in the thick of the American Association scrap despite the loss of four star players was engineered today by the club's new president, George M. Trautman.

Four players—including Charles Arthur (Wottaman) Shires—were traded by Trautman for as many members of the Rochester Club of the International League.

To Rochester in today's deal went Second Baseman Charley Wilson, Pitchers Jim Lindsey and Fred (Sheriff) Blake, and Shires, first baseman and captain of the Red Birds.

For this able foursome, the Birds got Mickey Heath, first baseman; Shortstop Benny Borgmann and Pitchers Jim Winford and Ed Heusser. The latter two have played for Columbus before.

RISKO BOUT AGAIN DELAYED.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 16 (A.P.).—The Johnny Risko-Patsy Perroni boxing match scheduled for tonight in the Cleveland Stadium was postponed until some time next week due to threatening weather. The match probably will be held Monday or Tuesday night.

AZTECA VS. GARCIA.

Los Angeles, Calif., June 16 (A.P.).—Kid Azteca, Mexican welterweight, was signed today to meet Caferino Garcia, Filipino slugger, in a ten-round bout here June 27.

LESLIE STAR AS DODGERS WIN, 3-1

Infielder, Traded Day Before, Hits Homer as Giants Bow.

NEW YORK, June 16 (A.P.).—With Sam Leslie setting the pace against his former teammates, the Brooklyn Dodgers today defeated the league leading New York Giants, 3 to 1, in a pitching duel between Van Mungo and Hal Schumacher and Adolfo Luque. The victory was the Dodgers' third triumph in 10 games with their Interborough rivals.

Leslie, traded yesterday in the deal that sent Frank O'Doul and Watson Clark to the Giants, drove in two runs to supply Max Carey's team with its margin of victory. His long fly in the sixth sent Danny Taylor across the plate with the Dodgers' second tally and his homer off Luque in the ninth produced the third run.

Lefty O'Doul got into the game as a pinch hitter for Schumacher in the seventh but grounded out.

128 Runners Today Await Marathon

International Field in Race for A. A. U. Crown Today.

15 Capital Men Are Entered; Michelson Again Competes.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

ONE hundred and twenty-eight finely trained athletes, the greatest aggregation of long-distance runners ever assembled within these congressional precincts, await the bark of the starter's gun today that will send them off on their 26-mile jaunt in quest of the National A. A. U. marathon championship. Promptly at 2 o'clock the huge field will move away from the starting point on the Mount Vernon boulevard near the shrine of the Nation's First President.

From a spectator's viewpoint the race is one of the most colorful spectacles of the year. None who witnessed it will forget the finish of last year's run when Clyde Martak, of the Baltimore Cross Country Club, breasted the tape a winner at the zero milestone, his tattered clothing hanging limply to his damp, perspiration-covered body.

De Bruyn's 1932 Effort Remembered.

Nor will they soon forget the heroic efforts of Paul De Bruyn, the German, who raised his exhausted body from where it had collapsed near the finish and staggered across the line to save third place.

Leslie Pawson, of Pawtucket, R. I., who won the Boston Patriots' Day run in record breaking time, is cofavored with Dave Komanen, of Toronto, to win. Komonen finished second to Pawson at Boston, but this time he envisions a triumph. Accompanying Komonen will be the championship Monarch Athletic Club team, which carried off team honors last year and is a strong favorite to repeat.

But there are others who may appear at the finish line ahead of their more favorably regarded brethren, not the least of whom is Whitey Michelson, the granddaddy of them all. Michelson was running marathons when many of today's contestants were just beginning to toddle around.

Fifteen Washingtonians are entered, including Jerry Looney, Arthur Dewhurst, Haskell Clarke, John McKeown and Jimmy Montague. Although facing one of the toughest fields any of them ever have competed against,

CUBS DEFEAT PITTSBURGH BY 9 TO 1

Guy Bush Holds Foe Scoreless Until Last of 9th Inning.

CHICAGO, June 16 (A.P.).—The first five batters drove Bill Sweet from the mound in the first inning with successive hits today and the Cubs went to a 9-to-1 victory over Pittsburgh.

It was their ninth triumph in 12 games with the Pirates this season.

Guy Bush shut out the Pirates until two were out in the ninth when Earl Grace doubled and scored Gus Suhr, who also had doubled.

Kremer, Harris and Hoyt succeeded Swift on the mound for Pittsburgh and only Harris was effective, holding the Cubs to one single in three innings, the Chicagoans piled up 14 hits off the other trio.

Hope to Add To 5-Game Streak

Whitehill Is Likely to Take Mound in First of Series.

New York, With Lead of Only 1½ Games, Faces Chisox.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

ST. LOUIS, June 16.—The Nats landed on the banks of Old Man River this evening with a five-game winning streak in tow and the league lead in the offing.

Not since the stormy days of April has it been the privilege of young Massa Joe Cronin and his Washington crew to regard the league leadership with such familiarity, but things have been happening of late in this American League—happening chiefly to the New York Yankees, who foundered on the reefs of a bristling Boston team.

The Nats hove into St. Louis for a four-game series with the Browns starting tomorrow, and as a result of shifting tides in the league pennant race are sailing along serenely in second place, only a game behind the water-logged and badly keeling Gotham craft which has been undermanned by pitchers and drifting aimlessly for the last ten days.

Only Game and Half In Lead.

The proud Yankee clipper ship, which had a six-game lead in its sails ten days ago, has seen its advantage dwindle to a mere game and a half, and Joe McCarthy's crew is now aware of the danger of being overhauled.

All is not serene in the ranks of the Yanks, apparently. Always under the protection of a top-heavy lead, they were never a crabby crew, but recent misfortunes have not sweetened their temperament. Manager Joe McCarthy and Lou Gehrig both were ejected from the game in Boston last Wednesday by the rookie umpire, Bill Summers, who took his umpirical life in his hands, but won the weight-throwing contest among umpires when he tossed the ample McCarthy and the hefty Gehrig out of the game for taking issue with him on a base line decision.

Seven times in its last eight games the Yankee crew has met defeat in its brushes with the Athletics and the Red Sox. They lost their last three starts against the A's, won a game from the Red Sox and then dropped four straight to the Boston boys, who staged an old-fashioned tea party at the expense of the haughty New Yorkers, who seemed to be hot only under the collar.

Thus we can introduce the old, old question. Are the Yankees invincible? Not by a couple of hey nonnies, it seems. It is the hope of Cronin

SUN TEMPEST, WESTROPE UP, EQUALS RECORD AT CHICAGO

Kilmer Racer Beats Wise Daughter

R. McKinney Is Hurt at Belmont; Feature to Water Witch.

LINCOLN FIELDS, Ill., June 16 (A.P.).—Sun Tempest, racing in the colors of Willis Sharpe Kilmer, of New York, won the Streets of Paris Purse at Lincoln Fields today and equalled the track record for five furlongs. Wise Daughter was second, one length and a half back of the victor. Eurydice, early pacemaker, finished third.

Sun Tempest, ridden by Jockey Jack Westrope, was in third position rounding into the stretch and, showing sparkling speed, gradually gained on the leaders and won going away, running the distance in 0:59 4-5.

Straight $2 mutuels paid $9.94.

Belmont Park, June 16 (A.P.).—The Bobbin Purse, 5-furlong dash for 2-year-olds headed today's card and resulted in a driving victory for C. D. Widener's promising filly, Water Witch, well played at three-to-one. Collateral was second, a neck back and 6 lengths before Herowin. Billy M., the favorite, broke very slow and never was a factor. The time was :59 flat.

Water Witch broke rapidly and, although hard pressed by Collateral most of the trip, she gamely responded to Robertson's strong urging in the final furlong and had the better of a hard drive. Herowin raced forwardly from the start and easily saved the show.

Rigan McKinney, wealthy amateur rider, was injured when his mount, Citron, fell at the second jump in the steeplechase. He was removed to a local hospital where he was found to be suffering from a fractured right arm.

Hardwicke Stakes Won By King George's Horse

Ascot, England, June 16 (A.P.).—King George's Limelight, at odds of 7 to 1, today won the Hardwicke Stakes at a mile and a half for one of His Majesty's few racing victories of the year.

Limelight won by a neck from D. S. Kennedy's Nitsichin, which ran third yesterday in the 2¼ miles gold cup, and Sir C. Chubb's Donna Sol was third only a head back in the blanket finish. Eight ran. The purse was £2,000 with extras.

MOUNT RAINIER BOOKED.

Mount Rainier will play the Georgia Avenue Business Men today at 1 o'clock on the Taft Park diamond. All players are requested to report promptly.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: LINCOLN FIELDS, JUNE 16.

Well, friend, as the results have probably told you, I made Portmanteau beat Ecstera today. The son of Porter turned the trick by two lengths. And at a $7.54 mutuel. Also put over two other winners here. Sambo Brown stepped down at a $3.76 pay-off and Haramzada took the final at $13.22. Squeeze Play came through for me at Connaught. Here's some at other tracks for tomorrow: Sation, Grand King, Happen, Sublevado, Little Wing, Doris B. Sister Madge goes at Bainbridge, but she's off my list. BILL.

FIRST RACE—SONG HIT, BILLIE'S ORPHAN, MRS. LETT is just about as good as any way to figure the opening scramble. Should the going turn muddy, sink the ship on BARASHKOVA, which has been scratched three times waiting for mud.

THIRD RACE—Understand old HAMILTON will have a real jock in pilot house, so prefer him to RUSTY, with SERGEANT HILL to show. Should the threatened rain materialize, and the going become muddy, go to the SARGEANT straight.

FOURTH RACE—MISS MARR will be in front at the quarter and may last it out. DESERT CALL and RUBIO for place and show.

FIFTH RACE—All speed demons, but I am picking ESSEFF as my best bet of the day. MAROONED should last for the place with DYAK to show.

SIXTH RACE—The undefeated MISS PATIENCE will hardly catch MATAHARI in this stake event. I like NIGHT SHIP for the show end.

SEVENTH RACE—Any one of a half dozen can win this race. I rather fancy SPUD with UNCOMMON GOLD and OLD JUDGE fighting it out.

EIGHTH RACE—The nightcap is a good one to watch and not wager on. MAD CAREER, BATTY and BATTLING ON are as good as any. The last named will have Westrope up, but the route is a trifle far.

Nats to Open Series in St. Louis

and his Washington lads that the Western clubs take heed at what happened to the Yanks, particularly in Boston, and lend a little assistance in the matter of subduing their perennial conquerors and lifting the yoke of Yankee leadership.

Not since Tom, Dick and Jerry were colts have the Red Sox risen to smack down the Yankees in four straight games, but with Multimillionaire Tom Yawkey lifting the old mortgage from their heads, Boston is again of service to the rest of the league. And Manager Marty McManus' job looks a deal safer.

But this is no time to sing the requiem of the Yanks. Gomez, Allen and Ruffing are still good pitchers despite their recent shellackings. And the Yanks are still loaded with dynamite. But their rookies, Don Brennan and Russell Van Atta, have been getting their bumps and the release of George Pipgras to the Red Sox created a mighty leakage in their pitching defense.

While the Nats are battling the Browns, the Yankees will be having no sinecure in Chicago. The White Sox are up there winging in third place and are tough for any team, with Al Simmons' big bat bringing home the runs, Mule Haas turning triples into putouts and Jimmy Dykes plugging that awful gap at third base.

Three off days have found the Nats' pitching staff fully rested. Earl Whitehill probably will be the nominee tomorrow, with Walter Stewart and Al Crowder due to work the double-header on Sunday.

When they left Washington for their Western invasion, the Nats were still slug-nutty, winning ball games by the very might of their willows, and the return to batting form of Goose Goslin, Heinie Manush and Joe Cronin, the terrible trinity of the Washington attack when they are laying the wood against the leather.

But at least two St. Louis pitchers are able to stop the Nats. Despite their last-place position, the Browns in their own bandbox park are dangerous with such men as Sammy West, Ted Gullic, Bruce Campbell and Oscar Melillo to shoot for the nearby fences and Bump Hadley and George Blaeholder to stifle the attack of the opposition.

Hadley during the last two weeks has been pitching the best ball of any hurler in the league, twice losing on 1-0 shutouts and once winning a four-hit game. The Nats will meet up with him, and Blaeholder too, sometime before they pull out on Monday evening.

Christian Science Churches

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved from Atomic Force?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from Isaiah 48: 12, 13: "Hearken unto me, O Jacob and Israel, my called: I am he; I am the first, I also am the last. Mine hand also hath laid the foundation of the earth, and my right hand hath spanned the heavens: when I call unto them, they stand up together."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "O come, let us sing unto the Lord: let us make a joyful noise to the rock of our salvation. Let us come before his presence with thanksgiving, and make a joyful noise unto him with psalms. For the Lord is a great God, and a great King above all gods. In his hand are the deep places of the earth: the strength of the hills is his also. The sea is his, and he made it: and his hands formed the dry land. O come, let us worship and bow down: let us kneel before the Lord our maker. For he is our God; and we are the people of his pasture and the sheep of his hand." (Psalms 95: 1-7.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text Book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker-Eddy: "God gives the lesser idea of Himself for a link to the greater, and in return, the higher always protects the lower. The rich in spirit help the poor in one grand brotherhood, all having the same Principle, or Father; and blessed is that man who seeth his brother's need and suppleth it, seeking his own in another's good." Pale Faces Envisage Indian Gold Caches in Pictographs

Crop of Treasure Cave Legends Springing Up, Especially in South; Smithsonian Aid, Sought for Translations, Discounts Hopes.

A new crop of buried-treasure legends apparently is springing up all over the United States.

A continual succession of requests is being received by the Bureau of American Ethnology of the Smithsonian Institution to translate supposedly cabalistic messages found on rocks and cave walls, especially through the South.

These generally are pictographs made by the former Indian inhabitants. Some of the Southeastern tribes were reported by early explorers to have displayed vast amounts of gold and, especially, pearls. The idea has spread that they buried these to conceal them from the invading Spanish and French and left directions in their own writing to fix the locations.

Actually, according to Dr. Matthew W. Stirling, chief of the Bureau of American Ethnology, these pictographs can not be interpreted by any man now living and the majority probably had little meaning even to the Indian who made them.

The impression that these pictographs constitute a code of some sort is a natural one, Mr. Stirling says. Consequently it is not surprising that one who has had the imagination stirred by buried-treasure stories should believe that a picture of a bear on the face of a prominent boulder conveys an elaborate message describing the location of hidden treasure nearby.

Actually, Dr. Stirling points out, the accounts of the Spanish explorers of the wealth displayed in the Indian villages through which they passed doubtless were enormously exaggerated. The so-called Muskogean culture of the Southeastern States was one of the highest attained in primitive North America, but the wish for great wealth was often father to the thought in the minds of such men as De Soto and his companions. The Indians doubtless had some gold. They also had considerable quantities of fresh-water pearls, which they treasured highly, but which would have no value today.

Many of the requests for interpretation of supposedly cabalistic directions to hidden treasure come from Texas where, it appears, there is a persistent legend that great quantities of gold were brought from Mexico by Spanish explorers who were killed in battles with the Indians.

Coal Mine Owners Adopt Model Code

Chicago, June 16 (A.P.).—A model code under which the operators of each mining district may write their own provisions for wages and hours of work was adopted today by soft coal operators of the National Coal Association.

The code, drawn by a committee of 19 operators, outlaws secret rebates, commercial bribery and other sharp competitive methods, and provides for inspection of operators' books by association officers.

Put before the convention of 500 soft coal operators as the new law of the industry, the code was accepted "as a guide for the district" after operators had declared it was impossible to write detailed regulations for the industry as a whole.

League Council to Hold Session on Gran Chaco

Geneva, June 16 (A.P.).—The League of Nations committee which is endeavoring to compose the conflict between Bolivia and Paraguay over the Gran Chaco decided today to recommend a special session of the league council, to be held before the end of June.

This decision was reached because of unfavorable developments in the dispute. The last Bolivian communication to the league was regarded as demonstrating wide divergencies in the views of the two conflicting nations.

Sum of Money Found At London Conference

London, June 16 (A.P.).—In the midst of solemn deliberations by the economics commission of the World Economic Conference today, the chairman, Premier Colijn, of the Netherlands, announced that 4 pounds 10 shillings, had been found, and that the owner could have them by applying to him.

The delegates, many of whom previously had slumped in their seats, promptly sat up.

Mrs. Sankey Freed, Then Is Rearrested

St. Paul, Minn., June 16 (A.P.).—Mrs. Fern Sankey, acquitted last night of complicity in kidnaping Haskell Bohn, of St. Paul, was arrested today on a Federal warrant charging conspiracy to kidnap Charles Boettcher 2d, Denver broker, several weeks ago. The warrant alleges that Mrs. Sankey participated in a conspiracy to kidnap Boettcher, transport him to Buffalo County, S. Dak., and hold him for ransom.

Boettcher was held more than two weeks and released when $60,000 ransom was paid. Bohn was held in Minneapolis a week last year and released on payment of $12,000.

Mrs. Sankey's missing husband, Verne Sankey, is wanted here for the Bohn seizure and at Denver for the Boettcher kidnaping.

Flier Dies of Injuries.

March Field, Calif., June 16 (A.P.).—Lieut. Edward B. Kennedy, 24, one of four men injured in the crash of an Army transport plane in Cajon Pass, June 1, died today. His was the fourth death, three enlisted men having been killed when the plane struck a mountainside in a dense fog. The other injured recovered. Lieut. Kennedy, formerly of Kansas City, Mo., was a resident of Berkeley, Calif.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

THE dollar, or rather the first of its long line of ancestors, was born in Bohemia in 1516 when the Count of Schlitz appropriated a newly discovered rich silver mine in Joachimsthal, and ordered large silver coins bearing an effigy of St. Joachim to be struck. The first of these coins bore the date of 1518. They were known as Joachimsthalers. The Joachimsthaler was designed to be the silver equivalent of the gold gulden.

The Joachimsthaler, which was also known as the Schlickenthaler, later became the "thaler" and, through difference in pronunciation in various countries, still later it was known as the "tallego," the "daler," "dalar," "daalder," and finally as the "dollar."

The American dollar was established by the Congress in 1792, later to be changed slightly by succeeding acts of Congress.

Strange as it seems, the gold dollar was made the standard of United States value in 1900, but it was never coined.

INVESTORS CONSIDER MERGER OF TROLLEY CONCERNS ON JULY 3

Will Meet to Map Form of Agreement as Basis for Consolidation.

Stockholders of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the Capital Traction Co. will hold a special meeting July 3 to approve a form of agreement on the proposed merger, according to a formal statement issued last night by William P. Ham and John H. Hanna, respective presidents of the railways.

The statement explained that, though committees representing the two companies have been at work for several months seeking to draft an agreement, no accord has as yet been reached. The committees "have been continuously in negotiation," the statement read, "but it has not as yet been possible to arrive at a final determination by reason of the many points to be considered, and the present complicated economic conditions."

Follows Action of Congress.

By approving the form of agreement embodied in the joint resolution, the stockholders will comply with the requirement that such action be taken within six months after the resolution is passed by Congress. The resolution passed the House on January 4, though it was not signed by the President until January 14.

"Following approval by the stockholders of the two companies of the form of agreement to be submitted to them on July 3," the statement continued, "every effort will be made to arrive at an early understanding of the points now unsettled.

Another Special Meeting.

"Such final agreement will then be submitted to the stockholders for their approval at another special meeting and must be approved by the Public Utilities Commission. The joint resolution provides that the unification of the transit companies must be finally effected not later than January, 1935, and it is hoped will be accomplished considerably before that time."

Mr. Hanna has previously informed the commission that he hoped the merger agreement might be approved by the stockholders of both companies by the end of this year although the law allows another year. The commission has made it clear that it will need considerable time, however, to examine the final agreement form as it will be passed by the stockholders.

While the joint resolution set forth the general form the merger must take, it left for negotiations between the two companies the number of shares of capital stock in the new company to be issued to the respective present organizations, the amount of bonded indebtedness to be assumed, and other important details.

Greased Trolley Tracks Basis of $15,000 Suits

Two suits, aggregating $30,000, were filed in District Supreme Court yesterday by [illegible] M. Lee, of 1927 Emerson street northeast. The papers named the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the Capital Traction Co. and they sought $15,000 from each.

Through Attorneys Charles Patton Henry and Robert C. Handwerk, the complainant charged that she was badly hurt when she slipped on some grease on the car tracks at Union Station June 18, 1932. In one suit she attributed the grease to one company and in the other she blamed the second company.

SCOUT AND FATHER INSPECT KNOTS

Troop 69 of the Columbia Heights Christian Church last night held their fifth annual "parent night." An exhibition of handiwork featured the program, which was held in the church hall. Eagle Scout Harry Barnett and his father, William Barnett, are shown inspecting a display of knots. Assistant Scoutmaster William Hunt is on the right.

RENT QUIZ PLANNED BY UTILITIES GROUP

Lack of Funds to Handicap Senate-Ordered Study, Gen. Patrick Says.

The Public Utilities Commission will carry out the mandate of the Senate to conduct a rent inquiry in Washington and will make a report when Congress reconvenes in January, but just how exhaustive the probe will be is problematical, Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman, stated yesterday.

Deprived of the $2,500 expense fund by the House and facing a reduction of more than $10,000 in appropriations for 1934, the commission will be handicapped in the undertaking. The commission will, nevertheless, strive to carry out the purpose of the resolution so far as it is able, Gen. Patrick said.

The commission will receive all complaints against high rentals and will seek to make adjustments. If possible, clerks may be borrowed from other District departments.

While the commission has full investigative authority, its power to compel landlords to reduce rents is conjectural. No indication was given yesterday as to whether resort would be taken to the courts in such cases, or whether the commission would merely report to the Senate.

200 Gather for Dance At Neighborhood House

More than 200 residents of Southwest Washington last night gathered in the Neighborhood House, 470 N street southwest, for the annual dance and frolic sponsored by the Southwest Citizens Association.

A program of entertainment and games featured the evening. Proceeds were turned over to charity.

Man Is Hurt as Auto Skids Onto Sidewalk

Struck by an automobile which skidded onto the sidewalk after colliding with another car at Massachusetts avenue and Thirty-fourth street northwest, Dennis Cooney, 1733 K street northwest, late yesterday suffered a possible fracture of the skull and lacerations to his scalp and forehead. He was treated at Mount Alto Hospital.

The cars in the collision, said to have been caused by the slipper pavement, were driven by Miss Alma Gallimore, 20, 3900 Fourteenth street northwest, and Charles E. Lake, of Rockville, Md.

Countess Is Unable To Get Lower Bond

Turning a deaf ear to their appeals for the setting of smaller bonds, Chief Justice A. A. Wheat, in District Supreme Court yesterday refused to permit the release of Countess Grace DeBenque and George Gormley on bonds of less than $15,000 and $25,000, respectively.

The two are indicted for grand larceny in connection with the allegations of Miss Louise Maret, co-proprietor of a fashionable school on Kalorama road northwest, that she paid over to Gormley $5,544 in order to avoid a threatened arrest on statutory charges.

Both Gormley and the countess yesterday pleaded not guilty. Because of their inability to obtain bonds both were committed to the District Jail to await trial.

Notre Dame Glee Club To Sing Solemn Mass

The Glee Club of Notre Dame University of 35 voices, now appearing at the Fox Theater, will sing a solemn high mass tomorrow at 11 a. m. in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Eighth and N streets northwest. The celebrant will be Father Hogan, who is in charge of the Glee Club and who is accompanying them on their tour as prefect of discipline.

The boys sanctuary choir will sing the processional and recessional. Father Hogan will be assisted by the Rev. S. A. Czys and the Rev. J. Kelly Reese. Owing to the illness of Father Francis J. Hurney, pastor of the church, Father Czys will preside.

NAMING OF DISTRICT COMMISSIONERS TO WAIT AGAIN 2 WEEKS

President Has Not Had Time to Study Capabilities of Various Candidates.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

The bitter scrap over the jobs of civilian Commissioners of the District will take another fortnight to run.

Out of the fight may emerge a couple of dark horses who have been in the minds of Democratic leaders for some time as men to whom they could turn in the event that selection of those who have been prominently mentioned would mean only additional bitterness and conflict.

President Roosevelt left for a two weeks' vacation without naming his selections, although he has had before him for some days a list of several men selected by Postmaster General Farley. The President will not make any selections, is was said at the White House last night, until after he returns to Washington next month.

Inquiry on Reorganization.

Despite revival of the month-old reports about reorganization of the District government, there is no indication that the President will deviate from his previously expressed plan to name two new civilian Commissioners to fill the posts until such time as the proposed reorganization has been worked out and approved by the next session of Congress.

Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, chairman of the Senate District Committee, already has launched an inquiry into the question of reorganizing the municipal government. He wants his committee to be prepared to consider the question as soon as it is presented at the next session.

Several have some rather positive ideas on the subject. It is not at all certain, therefore, that the next session will accept forthwith any proposal which might be advanced by the President after consultation with Frederic A. Delano, head of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and others.

Study of Capabilities Lacking.

The situation makes the naming of new Commissioners, under recess appointments, almost compulsory and that is what the President plans to do. It was said on his behalf yesterday that he has not had time to study the capabilities of the various individuals whose candidacies have been advanced for his attention.

Reports are, however, that pretty much the same names which have been regarded as outstanding are on the Farley list from which Mr. Roosevelt is expected to make his selections. These include Ernest G. Walker, Malcolm S. McConihe, Melvin C. Hazen, Joseph J. Cotter, and others.

Friends of several of these candidates have launched such strong attacks on other candidates that it may be that the President will turn away from all and select others whose names are being held in reserve for just such an emergency.

West Will Address Roosevelt Students

A crippled orphan boy who escaped from his work in an asylum laundry to plead his right for entrance to the old Business High School, and who since that time has been an inspiration to many students by his struggle for a successful career, will address the graduating class of the Roosevelt High School at commencement exercises Tuesday night.

The career of James E West, chief scout executive and editor of Boy's Life magazine, reads like a Horatio Alger novel. His appeal to Allan Davis, principal of the school, was successful and in two years he was awarded a certificate as a competent bookkeeper and stenographer.

Mr. West studied law and became a leader in the Y. M. C. A. and settlement houses here. His work attracted the attention of Theodore Roosevelt, and through him, he obtained playgrounds and aid for poor children.

Auto Accessories Stolen.

Approximately $60 worth of automobile accessories were stolen Thursday night when a gasoline station owned by H. T. Barrett, at Chillum, Md., was entered, it was discovered yesterday.

DISTRICT OFFICIALS JUGGLE PERSONNEL IN FUNDS SHORTAGE

Rotative Furloughs May Be Applied to Keep Jobs for Employes.

District officials yesterday began doing some figuring as to how they are going to remain within their restricted 1934 appropriations and at the same time abstain from discharging any regular employes.

While it will take several weeks probably to work out the problem in some quarters, yesterday it appeared that only three departments will need to make any considerable reductions in personnel: The Municipal Architect's Office, the Building Inspector's Office and the Vehicles and Traffic Department.

In these cases the appropriations were purposely reduced to bring about a dismissal of some of the employes. The municipal architect's staff of 35 men will be cut 40 or 50 per cent, the building inspector's staff of 59 probably will lose a dozen men, and the traffic director is expected to drop an equal number.

Rotative furloughs may be applied, however, to reduce the number of dismissals in these departments. Such schemes are now being investigated.

While the District Government has a score of employes who have served 30 years or more, no general application of the involuntary retirement provision is anticipated. Many of the 30-year employes are heads of departments. Only two of these are physically disabled. They are Fire Chief George S. Watson and Clifford Lanham, superintendent of trees and parkings. Mr. Lanham, who suffered a serious automobile accident some time ago, is on the job, but Chief Watson has been on sick leave for several months.

Many of the District departments will have to apply administrative furloughs, or fail to fill vacancies, or both to keep within their pruned appropriations. All will have to economize in every activity.

3-to-6 Year Term Given to Harding

Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat yesterday sentenced George P. Harding, youthful confessed slayer of Harry "Doc" Davis, to three to six years in the penitentiary.

Harding entered a plea of guilty to manslaughter after he had been indicted for first degree murder. He confessed shooting Davis in front of a lunchroom on Ninth street near New York avenue northwest, April 20.

Davis, known as a gambler, died a few hours after the shooting and Harding was surrendered to police by his attorney. The maximum sentence possible under the manslaughter count would have been 15 years.

Large Northeast Parade Next Week

A large parade composed of 12 bands, military units, fraternal and civic organizations will open the annual encampment of the District of Columbia Department of Veterans of Foreign Wars Wednesday at 7 p. m. in the Northeast section of the city.

In addition to the veterans the parade will be sponsored by the Northeast Business Men's Association. It will form at Union Market, move south on Fifth street to K street, east on K street and Florida avenue to Thirteenth street, south on Thirteenth street to H street, west on H street to Fourth street, south on Fourth street to E street, where it will disband.

The parade will inaugurate the annual convention which is scheduled for the evenings of Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at the Stuart Junior High School.

Boy Seriously Injured As Car Strikes Bicycle

Glenn Miller, 13, 4018 Brandywine street northwest, suffered a possible fracture of the skull and severe cuts and bruises yesterday afternoon when knocked from his bicycle by an automobile at Forty-sixth and Fessenden streets northwest. He was treated at Emergency Hospital.

Police said the automobile was driven by Henry I. Hunt, 4605 Langdrum lane, Chevy Chase, Md.

Omnibus College Arrives

Tourist Camp Is Tented City of 700 Students, 650 of Whom Are Women; Classes to Be Held at Various Capital Points.

Washington Tourist Camp took on the appearance of a hybrid circus grounds and bonus marcher encampment yesterday when the canvas of the Omnibus College was spread.

Nearly a hundred tents, with stay ropes serving as clotheslines for lingerie proved that the university on wheels from Wichita, Kans., is almost entirely a feminine institution.

In fact 650 of the 700 students are women. A great majority are school teachers who are taking advantage of a university which affords study, travel and amusement together.

The students are enrolled in the University of Wichita Summer School, paying $147 each for their tuition, transportation, meals, camp accommodations and sight-seeing opportunities on a seven-week trip through the East and Canada.

Regular classes are held during the trip in history, sociology, journalism, biology and geography. Dr. William N. Goldsmith, in charge of the project, says.

The university travels in 25 buses, 5 baggage trucks and 3 rolling kitchens. There are 16 instructors and chaperons.

While here many sight-seeing trips will be taken and daily classes will be held at the National Museum. Students are enrolled from every State west of the Mississippi.

From here the university will go through New York and New England and return to Wichita by way of Quebec, Niagara Falls and Chicago, where the World's Fair will be visited.

$200,000 WILL RELEASE $10,000,000 TIED UP IN SEVEN WASHINGTON BANKS

TEN MILLION dollars are tied up in Washington's closed banks. The deposits of seventy thousand people in this city are frozen.

More than one million dollars worth of stock has been subscribed toward the re-organization and re-opening of these closed banks. Two hundred thousand dollars more is needed. When this last two hundred thousand dollars is subscribed, more than ten million dollars will be available in the Nation's Capital by the opening of the Hamilton National Bank and its five branches, which will take in the District National Bank, the Federal-American Bank, the Potomac Savings Bank, the Woodridge Langdon Bank, the Washington Savings Bank, the Northeast Savings Bank and the U. S. Savings Bank.

It means that those people who have their money impounded will be able to get it—half immediately; that those who have to borrow will be able to borrow; that those who have money to deposit will be able to deposit it in safety. It will put the employees of these closed banks back to work. And finally, it means, psychologically and commercially, an important movement in the direction of keeping Washington in step with the national program for recovery.

We, The Hecht Co., selfishly and, we hope, patriotically, are subscribing $5,000.00 toward the opening of the Hamilton National Bank. We sincerely believe that it is a good investment, that we will get our money back, and more. We are pretty certain that of the ten million dollars released, Washington merchants will get a fair portion of these funds back in the shape of increased business. We think these banks should open, and open promptly . . . and we are going to do our bit to hasten this happy day.

Two hundred thousand dollars will release ten million dollars. What do you say, Washington?
